

How to remove the red underline and save text automatically in Word

Introduce to you how to remove the red underline and how to save text automatically in Word quickly and efficiently.

In the drafting process, red and blue underlines appear. The reason is that the words MS-Word does not understand the meaning and that you should check the grammar. Duc Minh will guide you how to remove the red line and guide how to save documents automatically in Word to avoid the case of losing all content when a power failure or power failure occurs.

I share with you tips for removing the red line while editing text and how to save text automatically in Word.

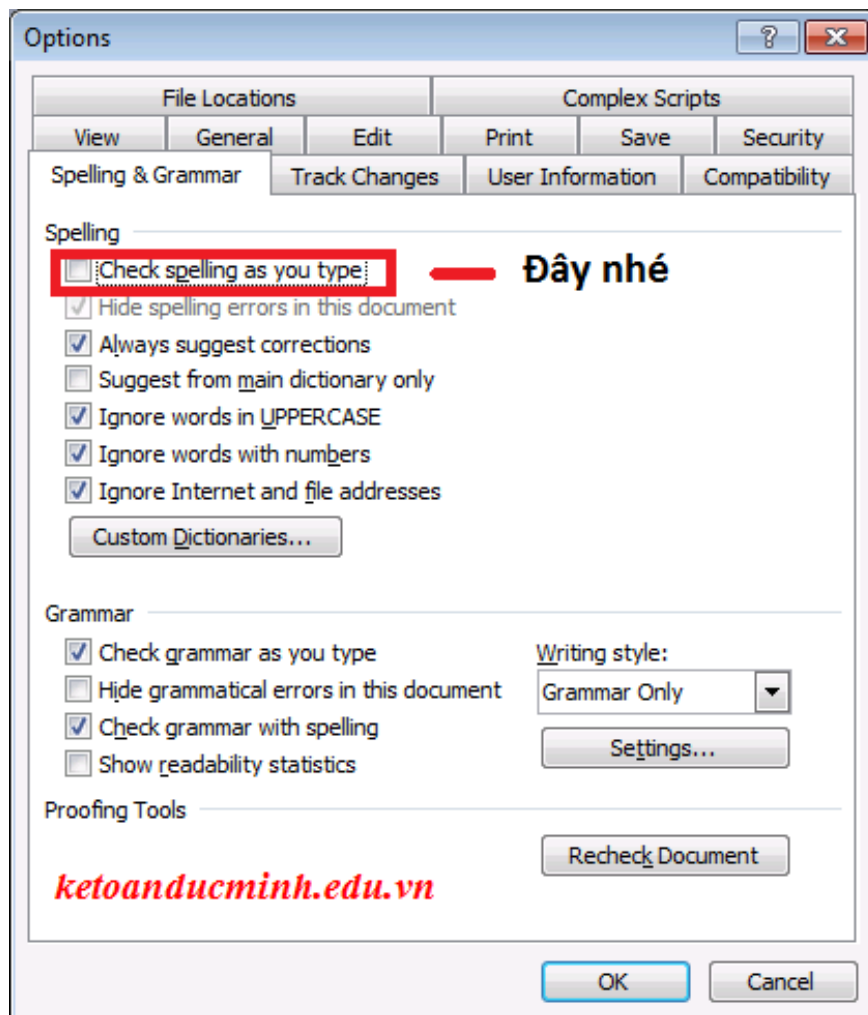

When writing a text, it is common to see red underlines that make your eyes sore, uncomfortable or do not know what to do, not only that sometimes the computer goes down or due to a power failure, caused the whole The text that you are editing suddenly disappears, how much typing, editing must now be redone from the beginning.

Therefore, TipsMake introduces you to 'How to remove the red underline and save text automatically in Word' below:

To be able to remove unnecessary red markers in the word, follow the instructions below:

Step 1: Go to the Tool menu -> Options

Step 2: At Options -> uncheck Spelling & Grammar

Step 3: Uncheck the Check spelling as you type box and you can remove the red underlines

If you want to remove the blue underline, you can uncheck the box Check grammar as you type

How to save documents automatically:

Step 1: Right-click the toolbar and choose Customize Quick Access

Picture 3 of How to remove the red underline and save text automatically in Word

Step 2: A new window appears, select Save

And one plus point for Word 2007 is that the default text saving mode is 10', and you can reinstall this default mode.

Step 3: At the option Save Documents -> Save AutoRecover information every -> select the default autosave time is 10 minutes, then click OK to save the settings

Picture 5 of How to remove the red underline and save text automatically in Word

The benefit of automatic document saving helps you to save fragmented texts to avoid loss of content when the power goes out or the computer turns off unexpectedly.

Above are the small tricks in Word that help you significantly improve the efficiency of your work.

You finished reading the article "How to remove the red underline and save text automatically in Word" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.