

How to send photos and audio recordings via email with VoNo

VoNo application will help you store a lot of content such as audio files, images, handwritten content and send to others via email.

When exchanging in work or study, there will be many types of data that we need to send to each other, not simply documents or images. To save the work, send many types of files at once, we can use VoNo application. The application supports users to convert text to voice, or send the recording you record directly via email to others. Besides, if you want to enter text directly, the application also has the option to use. In addition, live images are also supported by VoNo. In the process of importing the email you want to send, you can enter multiple emails to send at the same time, instead of sending to each email, saving time. The following article will guide you how to use VoNo to send a lot of content via email.
