

How to sign up for a YouTube Premium trial

YouTube Premium has a 2 month trial before the user decides to pay.

In addition to the free YouTube version for mobile and web platforms for users to share or search for rich video topics, we have YouTube Premium, a paid service that contains no ads while watching. YouTube Premium was originally named YouTube Red after its name was changed to YouTube Premium. Content owned on YouTube Premium is much richer, with the option to download YouTube videos to a computer to track, can access the original YouTube content. Currently YouTube Premium is implementing a trial program for 2 months when you sign in to your YouTube account, then decide whether to continue to use for £ 11.99 per month or not.

This gives users the opportunity to watch many interesting content from YouTube Premium completely free. The following article will guide you how to sign up for free YouTube Premium.

1. How to sign up for YouTube Premium free

Note to users , to sign up for YouTube Premium for free, you must roam for YouTube to the US or to North American regions. To roam for YouTube, we need fake IP. There are many ways to fake computer IP effectively such as installing fake IP software on the computer, or faster then installing the VPN utility for the browser. The following article will use the VPN utility for the browser.

Step 1:

You install the Hola VPN utility for Chrome browser by following the link below as usual.

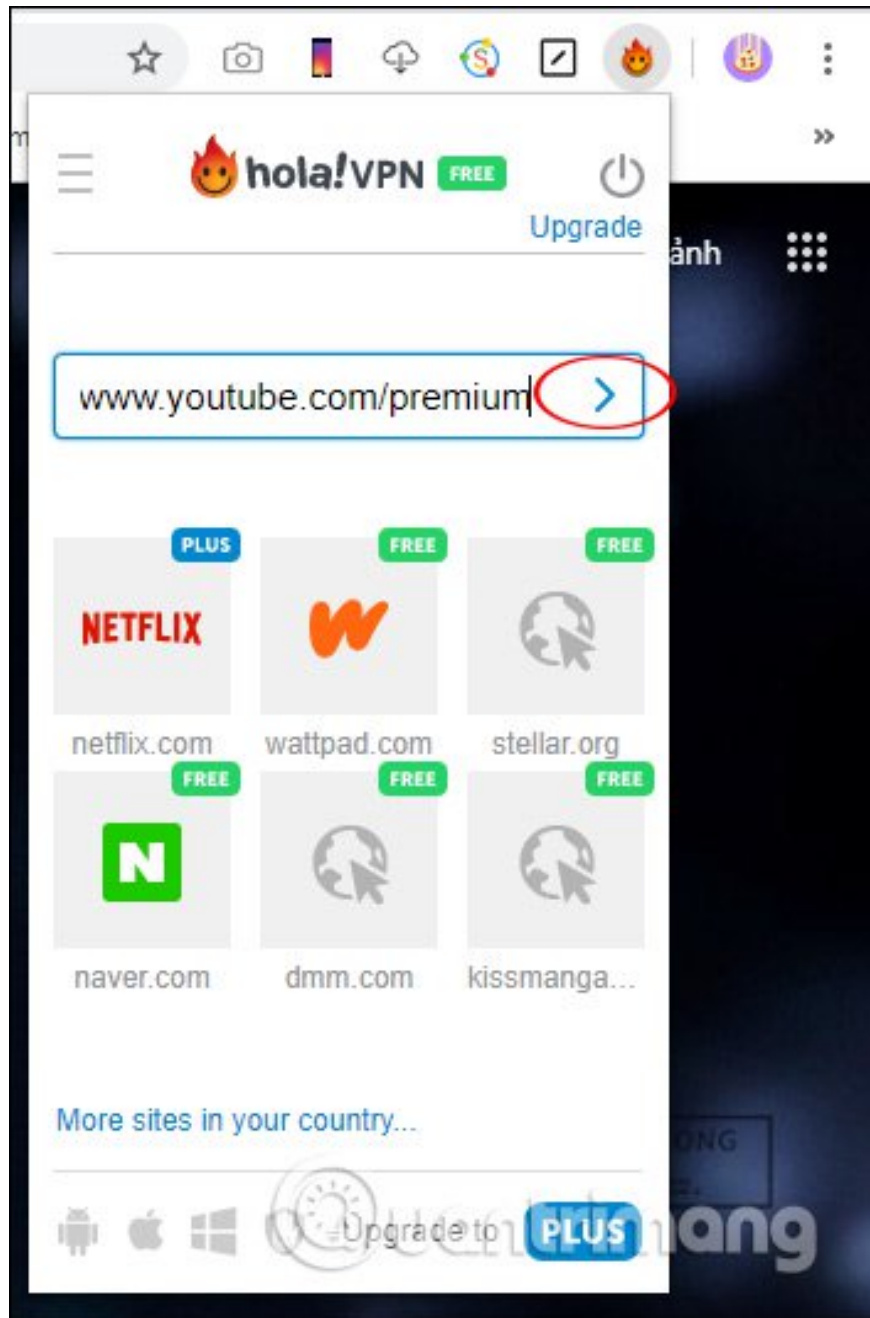

1. Download the Hola Free VPN Chrome extension

Step 2:

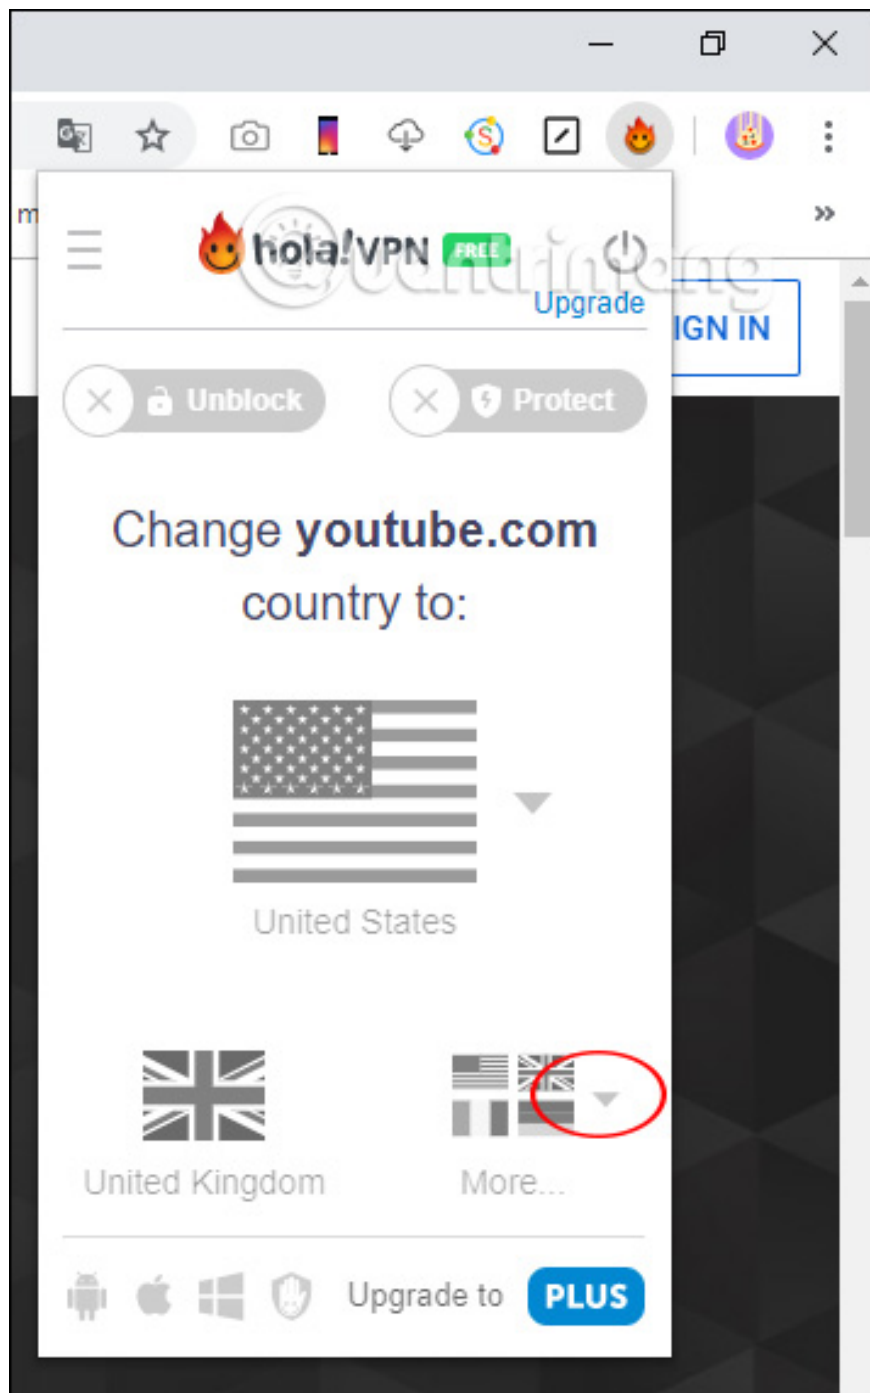

After installing the extension, click on the add-on icon on the browser access bar. Then we paste the YouTube Premium URL into a blank frame on the widget to proceed with fake IP of this page. Click the green arrow icon to access the website.

`https://www.youtube.com/premium`

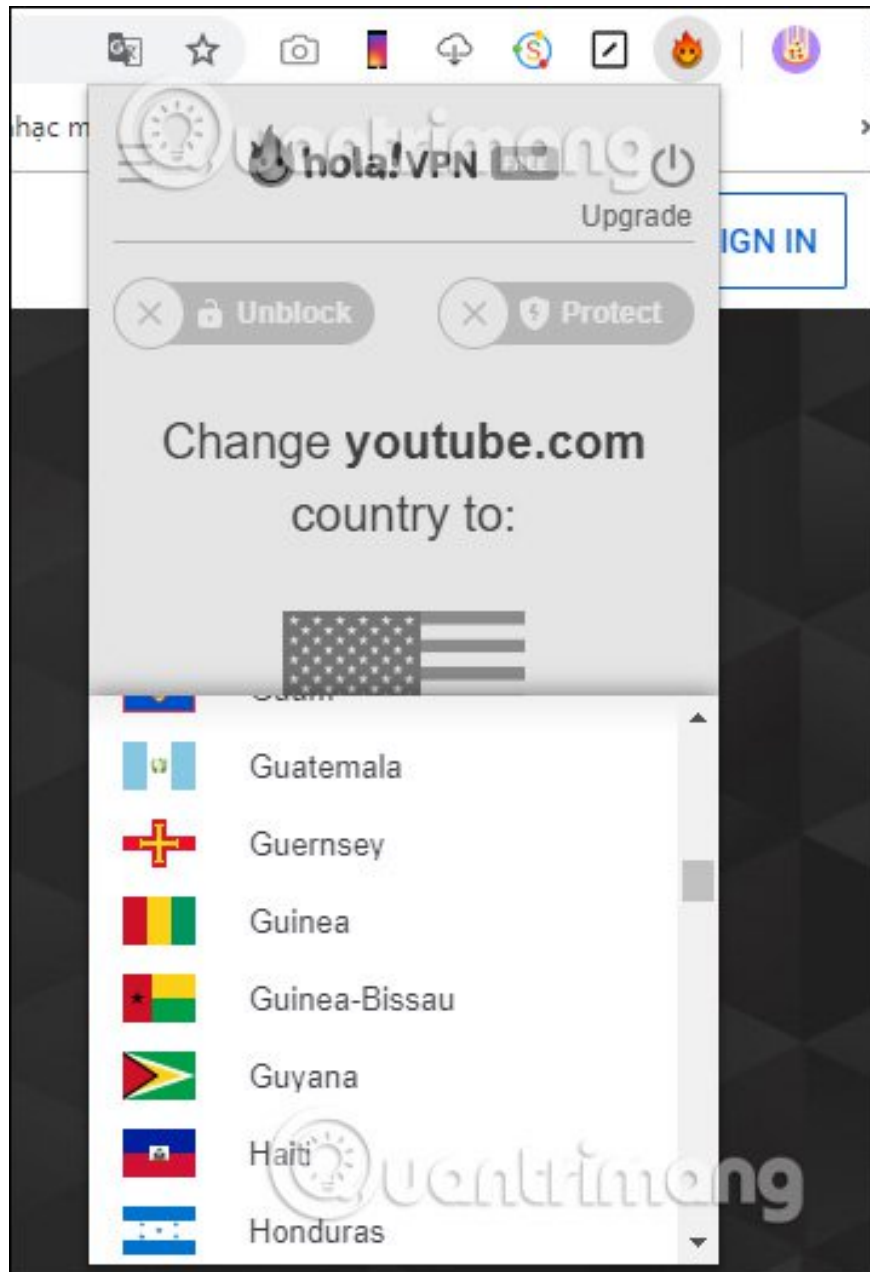

Step 2:

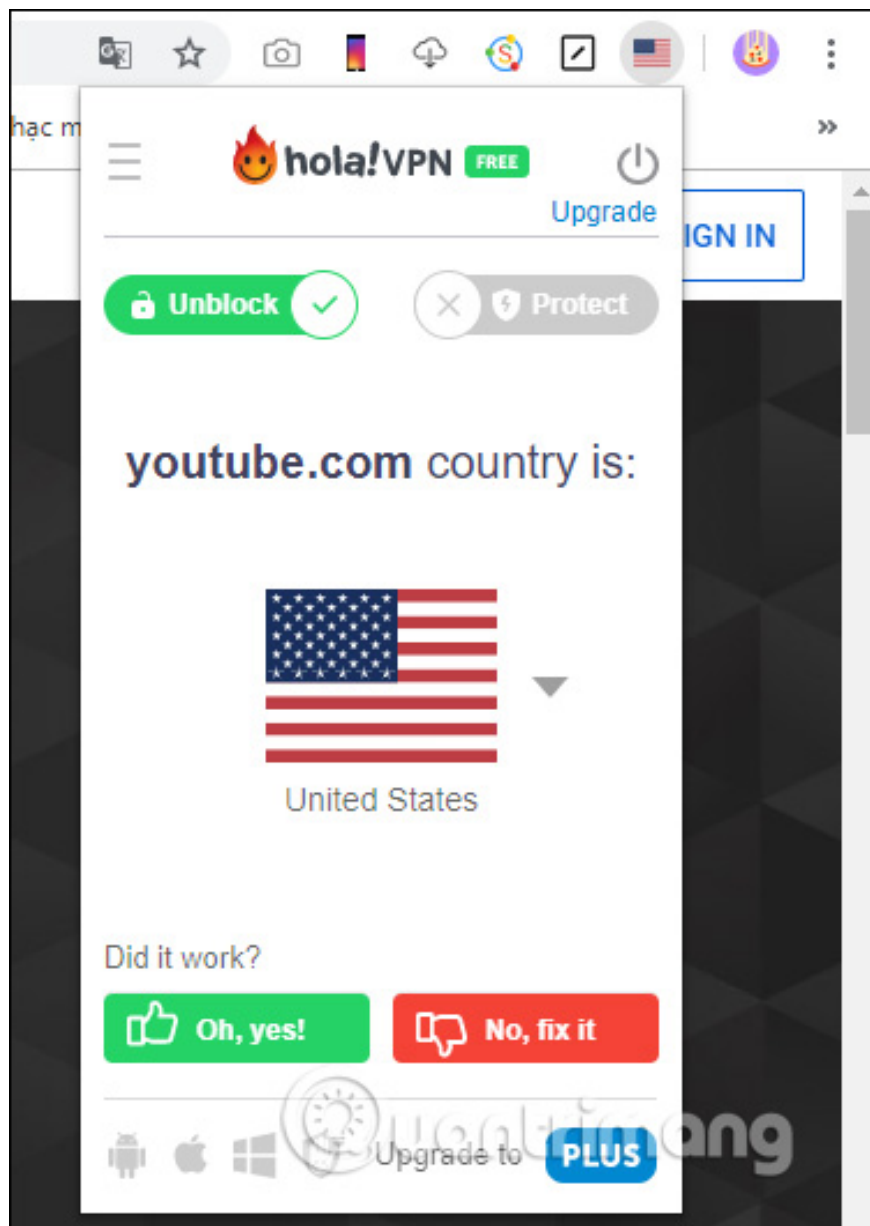

The YouTube Premium Hola VPN utility has provided a number of countries for users to switch to. To add another address click the triangle icon at More as shown.

Show a lot of other countries for us to choose fake IP address to that country.

For example, immediately click on United Staes to fake the IP address . At this point, the Hola VPN utility will automatically reload the YouTube Premium page and move the site address to the US.

Step 3:

This time you will see the notice of the trial program, click Try it Free .

When logging in successfully, you will see a free trial notice for 2 months, then return to the same fee level when using YouTube Premium. Also click on Try it free to try it out.

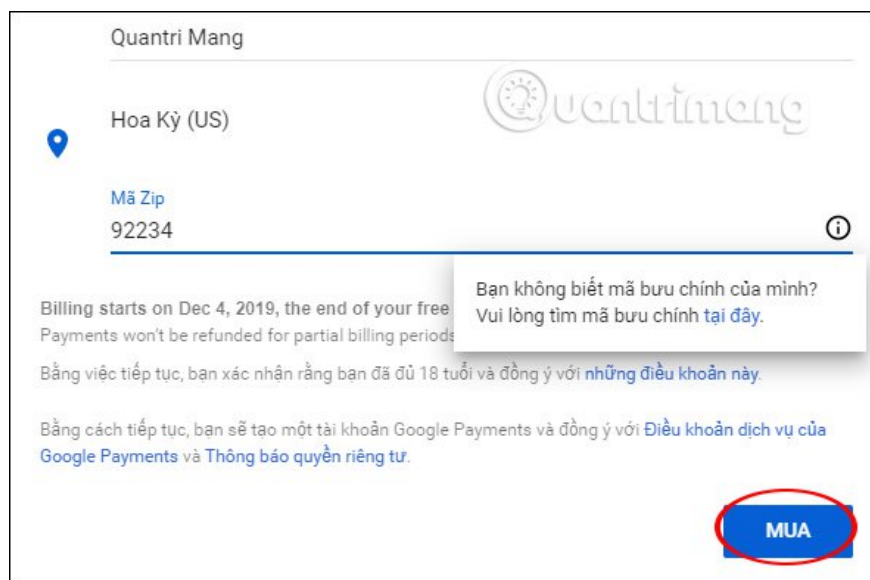

Step 4:

Display the interface to enter credit card information so that when the 2-month trial expires, YouTube Premium automatically deducts the fee in the user's account. We enter the required card number in the interface.

Below enter the zip code of the country where you have fake the IP address. If you do not know the zip code for that country, click the button next to it to open the lookup page. Also in this interface the user will see the trial expiry time. Note, users must cancel before this deadline to avoid YouTube Premium automatically deducting card fees.

Finally click Buy and then proceed to the request is complete.
