

How to turn off all notifications when calling on iPhone?

When you make a call on your iPhone, other notifications still appear and are sent to you. Many people are interested in turning off notifications completely when making a call on their iPhone.

When you make a call on your iPhone, other notifications still appear and send to you. Many people often ignore this problem, but some people are interested in completely turning off notifications when making calls on iPhone. Although there is no option to automate this problem, you can still do it manually by following the instructions below.

Turn on Do Not Disturb on iPhone

The best, easiest, and most practical way to turn off all notifications while you're on a call is to turn on Do Not Disturb mode. This will turn off all text and app notifications so you can make calls without being interrupted by notifications.

Or you can also turn on silent mode on iPhone when making calls. This mode will mute new notifications but still display them temporarily as banners.
