

How to turn off the notification prompt on Bixby Galaxy S8

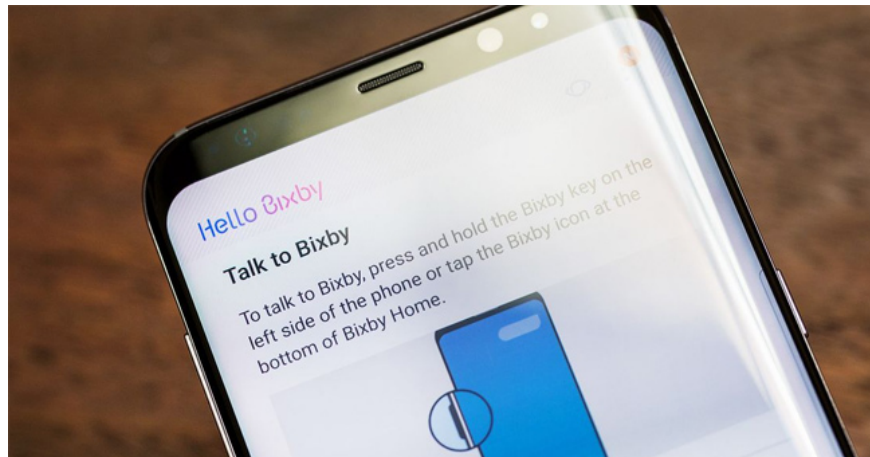

Bixby is the first virtual assistant to appear on the Galaxy S8, built into the device. And this virtual assistant will show notifications to users on the device interface.

Like Microsoft's Siri or Cortana, Bixby is Samsung's virtual assistant and was first used on the Galaxy S8 and S8 Plus duo. Bixby is deeply integrated within applications, supporting most of the tasks an application can perform, not simply performing a few selected tasks.

However, notifications on Bixby virtual assistants are sometimes not really necessary, and can make users uncomfortable when a constant message appears on the screen. If the user wants to restrict and turn off the notification Bixby on S8 or S8 Plus, please refer to the article below.

Step 1:

First of all, the user opens Bixby by clicking the open button on the left .

Then in the Bixby interface, click the bell icon in the right corner of the interface. Next, click on the 3 dots icon and select Settings .

Samsung Interactive and Customized Services for Reminder provides you with a better experience by personalizing your content.

Thus, we have turned off the Bixby notification and Samsung's interactive services, making it no longer uncomfortable for those notifications. In addition, we can also turn off apps and services that don't want to see notifications on the lock screen, by pressing and holding on the notification, and then tapping the 3-dot mark to go to the manager. Here, turn off the messages that do not want to appear.

I wish you all success!
