Removing it Manually

Obtain the administrator credentials.

Press Ctrl + Alt + Del to open Windows Task Manager (WTM) quickly. You may also right click on the taskbar and launch the option "Task Manager" on the context menu.

Hit the Windows button in the lower-left corner of your display.

5.

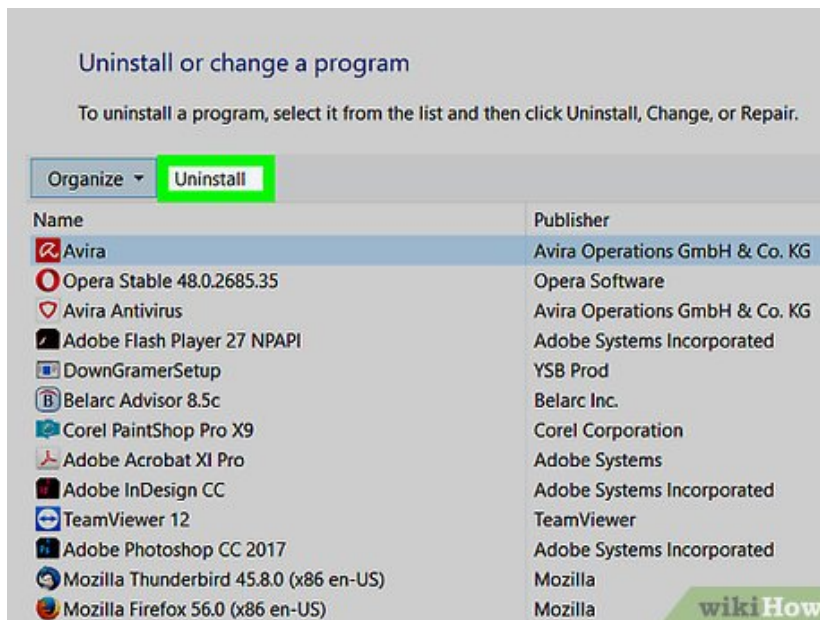

Enter the Group A, and head over to the Avira sub-folder.

6.

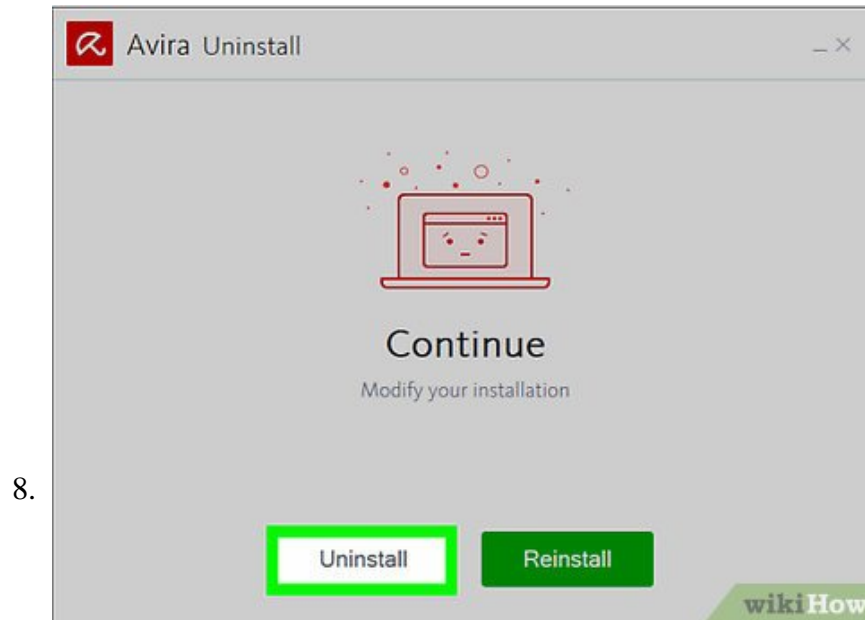

Right-click on the target application and launch the "Uninstall" option on the menu.

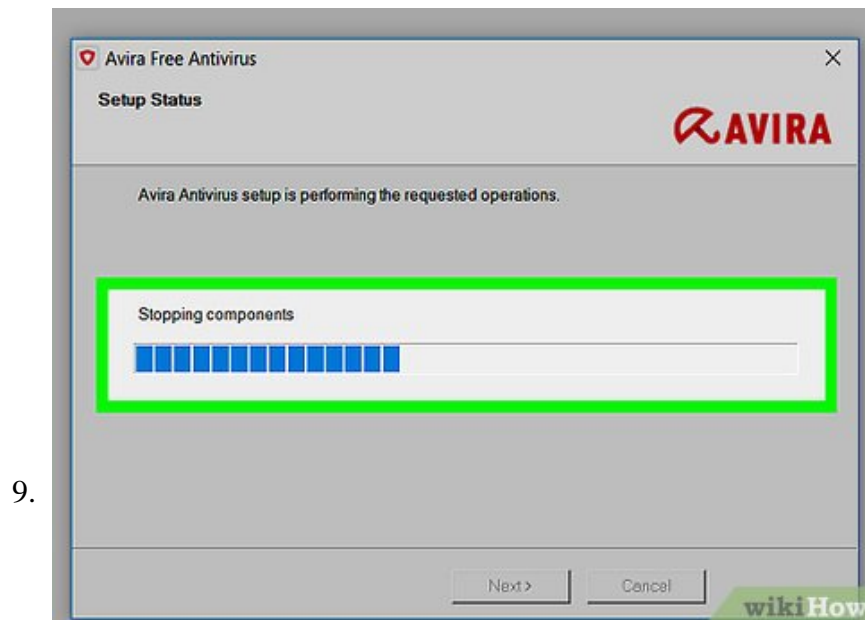

7.

Locate the unwanted Avira Connect app in the programs list. Press the ?Enter key on your keyboard to trigger uninstall mode directly.

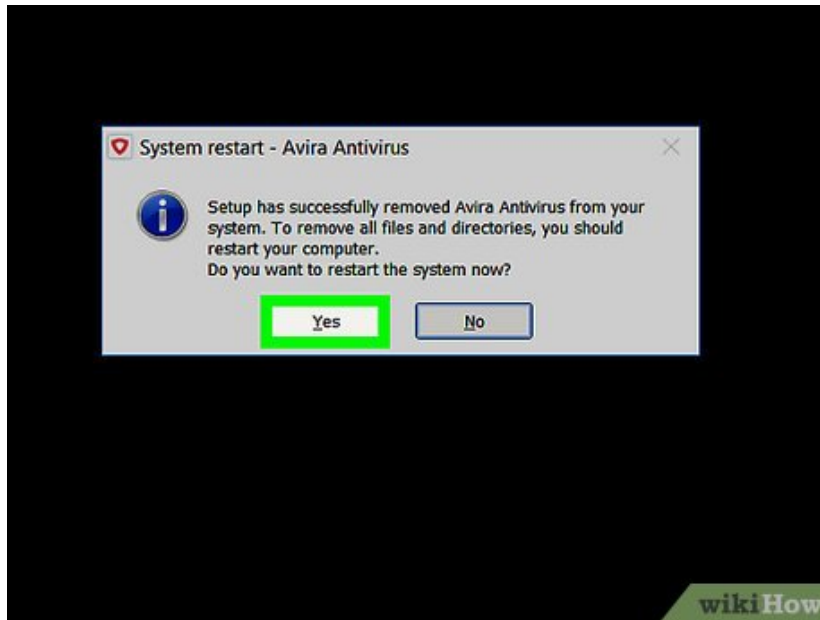

Choose the option "Uninstall" from the "Avira Setup" dialog box.

Sit tight until your removal request is completed.

Method 2 of 2:

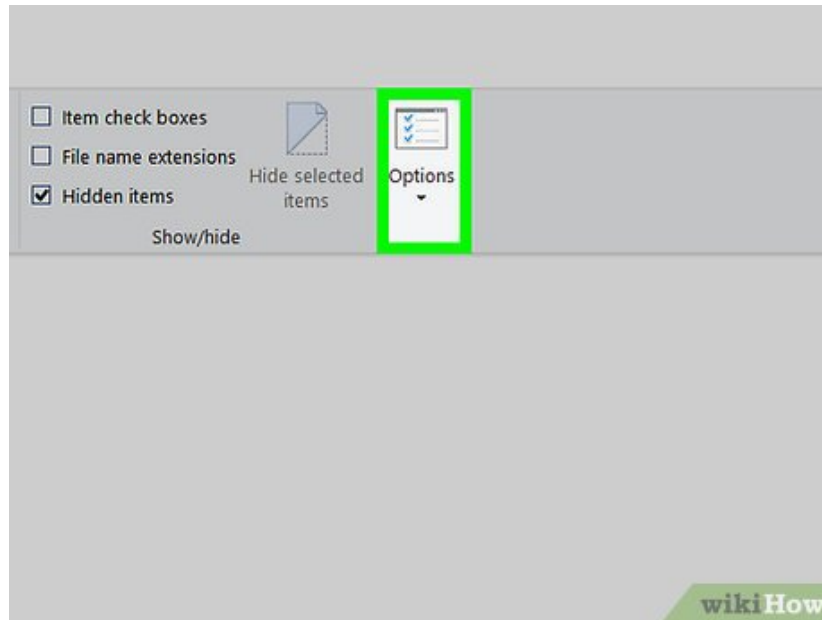

Cleaning Up Avira's Remains

1.

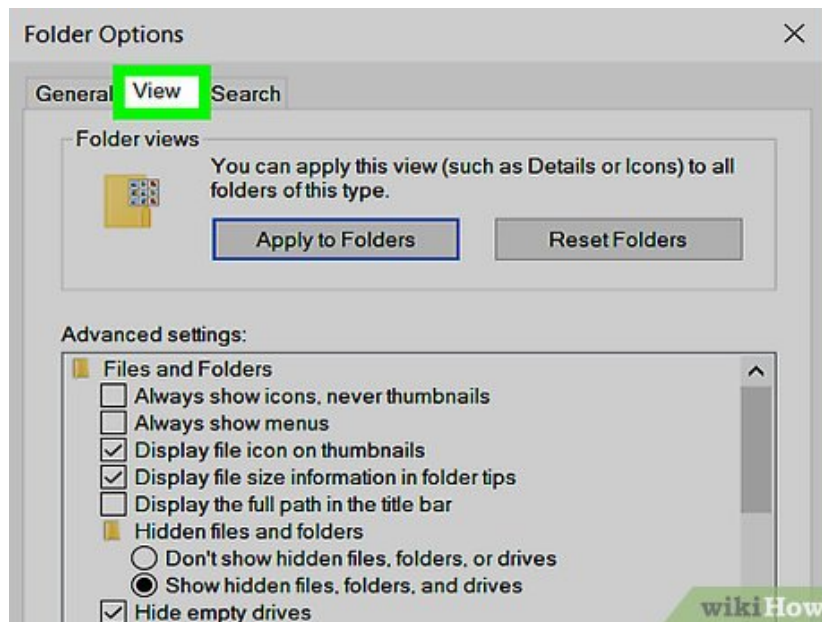

Open File Explorer.

2.

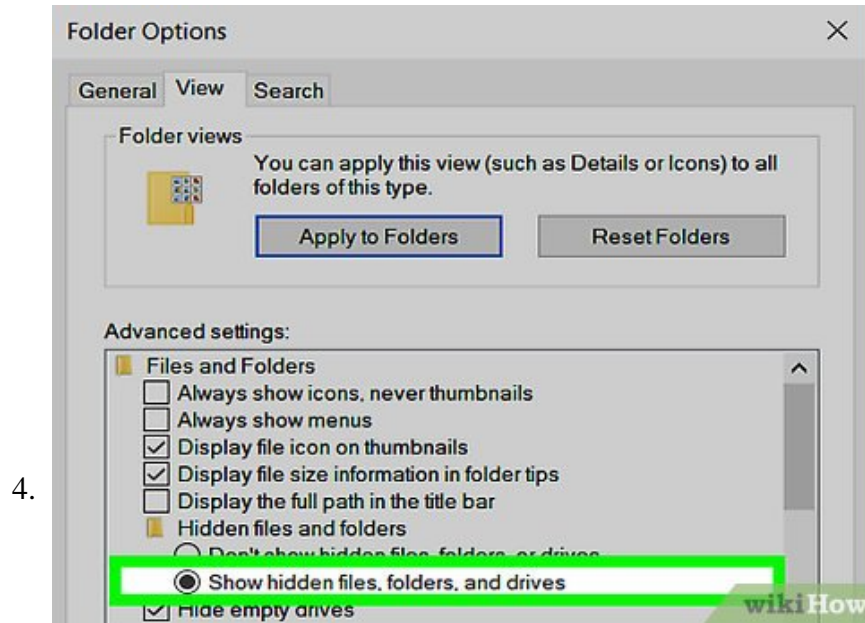

Hit the View tab and open the Options menu.

3.

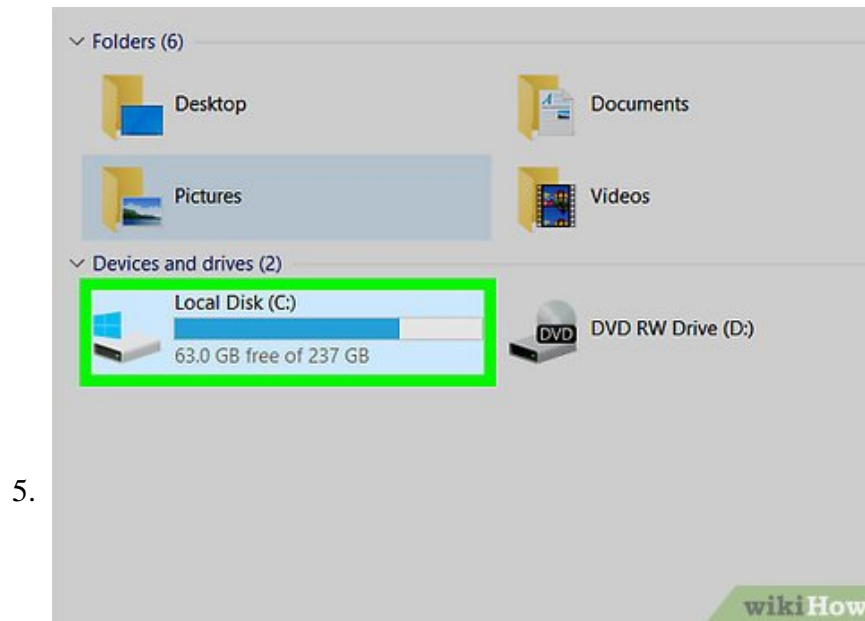

When the "Folder Options" comes up, hit the View tab.

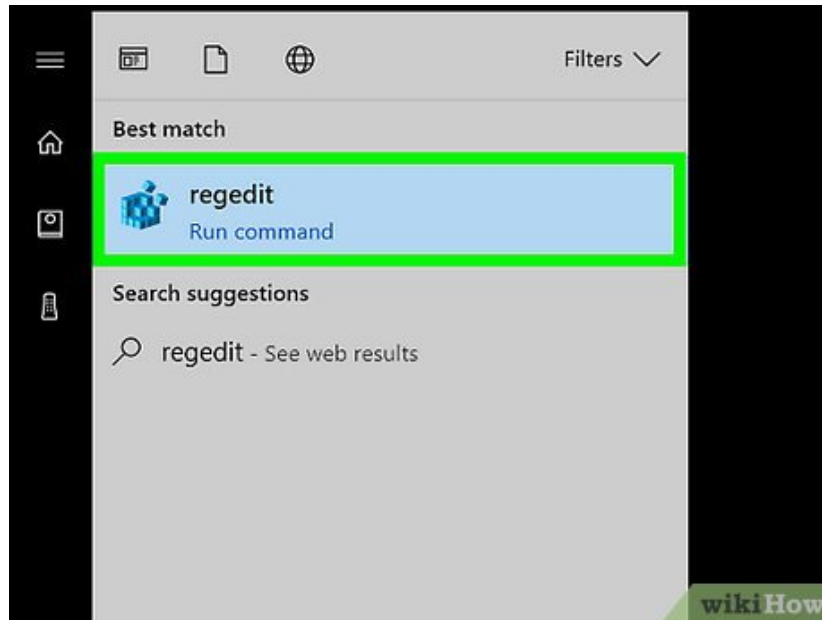

Look into the "Hidden files and folders" setting, and enable the option "Show hidden files, folders and drives" temporarily.

1. You had better undo this change later.

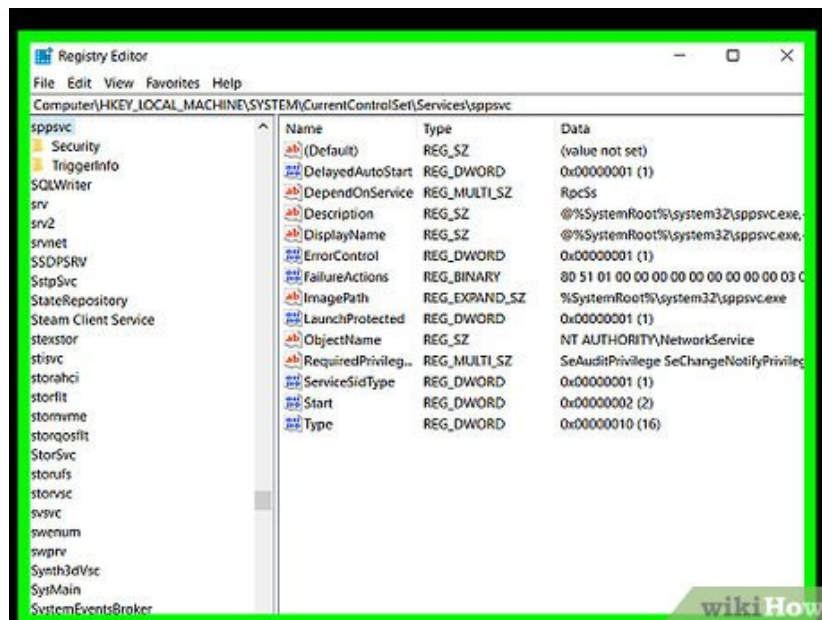

Choose the disk where you had Windows installed. Then, let your system detect Avira-related remains automatically.

6.

Press Ctrl + R, then enter REGEDIT in the small Run box.

7.

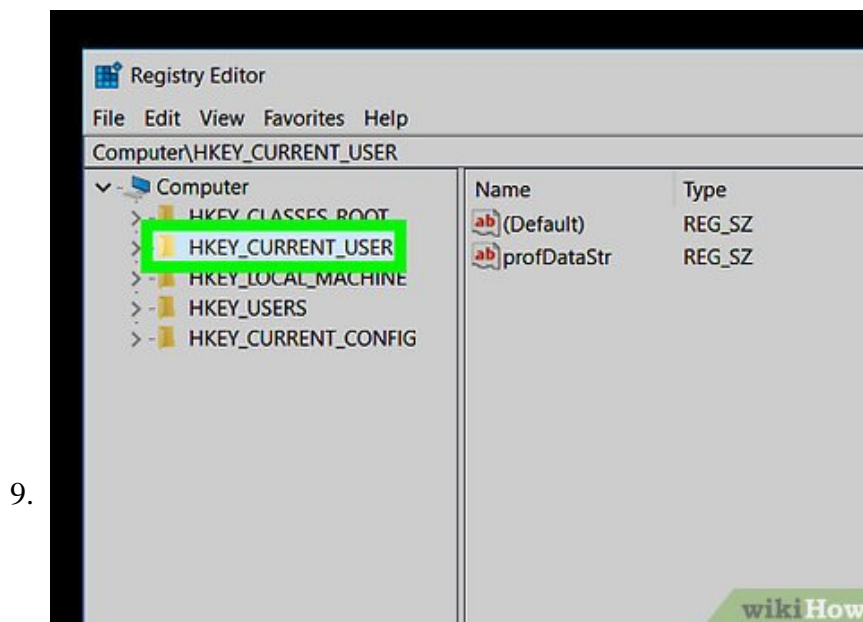

If you're facing User Account Control (UAC), choose the Yes option to proceed with the following actions.

Back up current registry settings first. This isn't essential but is highly recommended:

1. Hit the Computer entry.
2. Click on the File menu. Then choose the option "Export..." in that menu.
3. Save that registry file on a non-system disk (e.g., "Drive: (C)") or any other preferred location.
4. Ensure the "All" option under "Export range" is checked.
5. Hit the Save button when ready.

Dig around the Registry Editor. Erase Avira-related items that have been left there.
