Open the interface on the folder, name the file and then click the Save button to save it. In case you download audio files, you need to add mp3 extensions or any format because the file will be saved as mp4 by default.

Step 4:

In the Downloads section, we will see the downloaded files displayed. Click Open folder to open the folder to save the file. If you want to access the downloaded video and audio page, click on the title link.

In general, the usage of the utility Ant Video Downloader on Firefox is very simple. We can download videos right away from the download file management interface, or use the link in the target link to download videos with download accelerators like IDM.
