

HP Pavilion G6 costs from 13.7 million in Vietnam

The new G6 model is one of the first models of the modern, youthful mid-range Pavilion series and the cheap G series before.

The new G6 model is one of the first models of the modern, youthful mid-range Pavilion series and the cheap G series before.

The Pavilion G6 has a scratch-resistant case with a unique Imprint design and a lightweight design of only 3cm. Machine equipped with screen size 15.6 inch LED backlight resolution of 1366 x 768 pixels with good configuration with Intel Core i second generation processor and AMD graphics card with 1GB VRAM.

Pavilion G6 is sold in Vietnam with two basic configurations: G6-1001TX equipped with Core i3-2310M chip with 2.3 GHz speed, 2GB RAM, 320GB hard drive, AMD Radeon HD 6470 graphics card with 1GB VRAM, weighing 2.55 kg of reference price of VND 13.7 million (excluding VAT).

The other model is G6-1002TX with Core i5-2520M chip with 2.5GHz speed, 2GB RAM, 320GB hard drive, AMD Radeon HD 6470 graphics card with 1GB VRAM capacity, weighing 2.55 kg reference price of 15 million VND (excluding VAT).

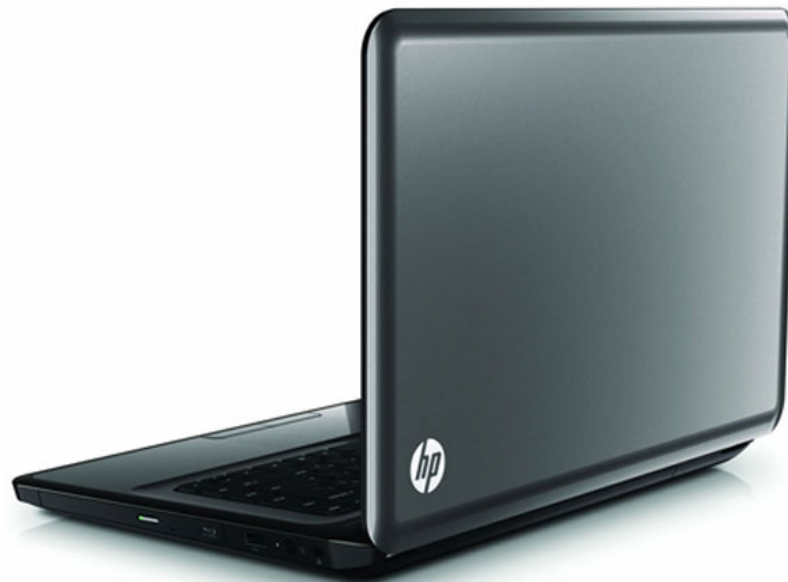

Some official photos of Pavilion G6:

Pavilion G6 with a modern design.

G6 equipped with a separate card and a Core i second generation chip.

Design HP Imprint and anti-scratch exterior surface according to HP's announcement.

