

Huawei launches MateBook X Pro 2024

Huawei has just launched the MateBook X Pro 2024 laptop in China. This is a new generation laptop aimed at thin and light design, powerful performance and smart features.

MateBook X Pro 2024 stands out with a weight of only 980 grams, lighter than Apple's 13.6-inch MacBook Air. The case is made from ultra-light aerospace-standard magnesium alloy and uses the new "Cloud Falcon" architecture and "diamond aluminum material", MateBook X Pro still ensures a balance between weight and durability. reliability.

The device is equipped with the latest generation Intel Core Ultra 9 chip. With the ability to provide performance up to 40W, this laptop is considered more powerful than Apple's MacBook Pro 14. This places the MateBook

The MateBook With a contrast ratio of up to 1,000,000:1, a maximum brightness of 1000 nits, significantly reduced screen reflections (70%), and an impressive screen-to-body ratio of 93%.

In terms of connectivity, the MateBook X Pro comes with a 3D holographic antenna - Huawei's exclusive technology. This technology promises to bring network speeds 40% faster than Apple's MacBook Pro 14.

This is the first time a Huawei laptop integrates the company's Pangu major language model. Pangu enables AI-powered features like text summarization across various applications. In addition, Huawei also cooperates with other AI platforms such as WPS AI, Wen Xinyiyan, and iFlytek Spark to provide a more comprehensive AI experience for users.

The price of Huawei MateBook X Pro starts at 11,199 yuan (about 38.6 million VND) for the basic model with Core Ultra 7 processor, 16GB RAM and 1TB storage capacity. The 32GB RAM and 1TB SSD version costs

12,499 yuan. The top-end model with Core Ultra 9 processor, 32GB RAM and 2TB storage costs 14,999 yuan.

You finished reading the article "Huawei launches MateBook X Pro 2024" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
