

Identify fake, fake Kingston products

The color of the genuine brand is red when viewed in a vertical angle and turns to olive green with an angle

The color of the genuine brand is red when viewed in a vertical angle and turns to olive green with an angle. The back of the Kingston USB packaging always has the product number, while the counterfeit product does not.

Picture 1 of Identify fake, fake Kingston products

Kingston module memory always has a part number label affixed to the product. The color of this genuine product label is red when viewed in a vertical angle and turns olive green when viewed at an angle.

Picture 2 of Identify fake, fake Kingston products

On Kingston USB product packaging, the back always has product number labels. Meanwhile the packaging of counterfeit goods does not have this label.

Picture 3 of Identify fake, fake Kingston products

Reading the parameters on the label, consumers will know the barcode symbols (UPC Bar Code), the authentication code (Authentication Code) and the License Key. They can also verify this information on www.kingston.com/asia/verifyflash/.

Picture 4 of Identify fake, fake Kingston products

On the USB connector part (except for the DTI line), there will be a laser number and ID number printed. There is also the Kingston, DataTraveler brand and capacity printed on the USB body.

Picture 5 of Identify fake, fake Kingston products

SD memory cards always have triangular points that change color to indicate the size of the card, capacity, Kingston registration mark.

Picture 6 of Identify fake, fake Kingston products

The back of the Kingston SD card always has a laser-printed or non-fading ink.

Picture 7 of Identify fake, fake Kingston products

All MicroSD cards are bundled with adapters, both with Kingston logos on the front and laser prints or ink on the back.

You finished reading the article "Identify fake, fake Kingston products" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
