

Identify the font used in Chrome with WhatFont

When you want to know which font set is being used in any website, what do you do? The most simple and manual way is to view the source of that HTML page to find information, but if that website uses more than one font, it will be difficult and complicated ...

TipsMake.com - When you want to know which font set is being used in any website, how do you do it? The most simple and manual way is to view the source of that HTML page to find information, but if that website uses more than one font, it will be difficult and complicated. In the article below, we will introduce to you a very simple and easy to use support tool on Google Chrome browser, which is WhatFont

Immediately after installation, you will see the icon of the widget displayed at the bottom of the address bar. To start using, we will click on it once and hover over the text area on the web page.

When left clicking on the text area, the program will display more specific information such as size, height, text format (bold, underlined, italic). But this utility cannot recognize fonts inside photos.

You finished reading the article "Identify the font used in Chrome with WhatFont" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
