

If there is not enough ransom for the file, send an email to complain to the hacker, maybe you will get a surprise gift

Due to the low income and inability to pay ransom, a victim sent an email to the hacker and received unexpected results.

In recent times, internet users all over the world have been in a state of anxiety and fear because a virus called WannaCry this type of malicious code has strong destructive power, making the entire data file of Users will be locked and want to redeem this data file, they must pay a significant amount.

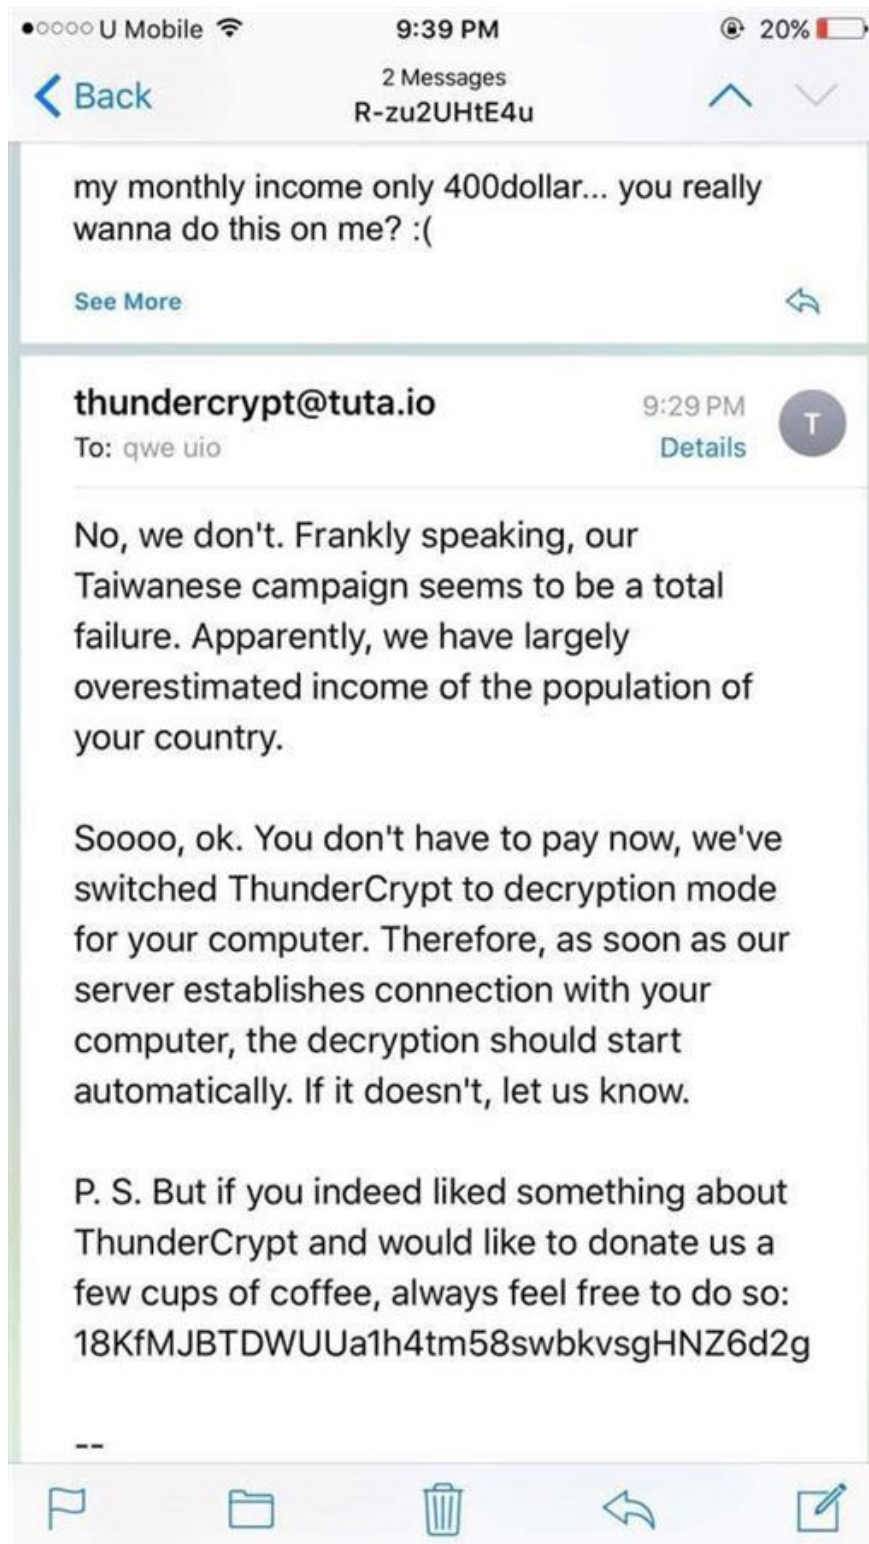

1. Funny caption of hackers spreading WannaCry malicious code
2. All about WannaCry, Ransomware has been confusing for the past few days
3. A hacker in the United Kingdom found a way to temporarily encrypt the WannaCry malware

Previously on May 4 in Taiwan a similar case also occurred to network users. A malicious code called ThunderCrypt also suddenly attacked many computer networks in Taiwan (China), causing the entire network to malfunction and the leaders of the case also demanded ransom. with users is 0.345 Bitcoin (nearly 600 USD) to retrieve data. But many people here with low income do not know how to manage the money that this hacker requires. In the extreme, there is no other way that a ThunderCrypt infected victim has boldly decided instead of sending money, he writes an email to send to the address that ThunderCrypt left and the content of the message he said I only earn $ 400 per month. A lot of living expenses have to be deducted, so he can't afford the ransom of 0.345 Bitcoin that ThunderCrypt requires.

And the results were amazing, he received the feedback from the hackers and they automatically decrypted the data on his computer without asking for a dime. Besides, the author of the malicious code ThunderCrypt also sent him a message saying that they overestimated people's income here.

Here is the full text of the victim's email: " I only earn 400 USD a month, do you really want to do this to me?" . Attached to the above content is a sad face icon :(.

ThunderCrypt replied, " We don't want to do that. Our Taiwan campaign really failed. We overestimated people's income in your country ."

" So you won't have to pay any money, we will switch to ThunderCrypt's decoding mode for your computer. This process will be completely automatic when your computer is connected. it doesn't work, let us know ".

Through these incidents, we can see that these hackers are not only funny but also very sympathetic to those infected victims.

You finished reading the article "If there is not enough ransom for the file, send an email to complain to the hacker, maybe you will get a surprise gift" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.