

If you don't hurry up, you can't upgrade to Windows 10 for free

If you still haven't switched to Windows 10, whether by upgrading your current computer or buying a new computer, it's still not too late to do so for free.

If you still haven't switched to Windows 10, whether by upgrading your current computer or buying a new computer, it's still not too late to do so for free.

Microsoft claims that by the end of 2017, they will stop upgrading to Windows 10 for free. So if you want, it is better to hurry up.

Windows 10 was released in July 2015 and was free for exactly one year. Since July 2016, there are still many ways for users to upgrade computers to Windows 10 for free. It will be a bit cumbersome and take a bit of work, but that's more than nothing.

Soon you will not be able to upgrade to Windows 10 for free

Unfortunately, the tech giant has announced it will no longer allow Windows 10 updates for free from December 31, 2017. ZDNet has discovered this change on the technical support page of Windows 10.

'If you use technical support, you can upgrade to Windows 10 for free because Microsoft continues to improve the Windows 10 experience for those who use them. But take advantage of it before expiring on December 31, 2017 '.

It looks like there will be no way to upgrade to Windows 10 for free in the future, so this will be the last chance for those who want to upgrade their computers without having to spend more money.

See also: Instructions to upgrade to Windows 10 from Windows 7/8 / 8.1

Updates on Windows 10 from the beginning brought many improvements, but Windows 7 is still more popular than Windows 10. Anyway, when it comes to paying, perhaps Windows 10's market share is even lower.

See also: Microsoft released a new update for Windows 10 and these are its new features

You finished reading the article "If you don't hurry up, you can't upgrade to Windows 10 for free" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.