

In order not to have a conflict after the wedding, the couples need to agree on the following

Many couples experience stress and fatigue in their marriage when they cannot find a common voice in basic issues such as residence after marriage, children, careers, and housework. .

Many couples experience stress and fatigue in their marriage when they cannot find a common voice in basic issues such as residence after marriage, children, careers, and housework. . So in order not to have conflicts after the wedding, the couples need to frankly talk, talk to each other about important issues in the wedding, family life, go to unity and respect. mutual importance.

1. The nature of the wedding

Let's decide together the scale and nature of the wedding. It is a simple wedding or luxurious, economical or monumental, simple or sophisticated, traditional or modern . Do not let any conflicts take place during the preparation and organization of the wedding . It will make you lose fun on the big day and even make you guys continue to quarrel after the wedding ends.

2. Procedures in the wedding

Each locality and religion has different conceptions and customs about weddings. Therefore, not only the bride and groom but also the family of both sides need a conversation to agree on necessary procedures. Especially the elderly in the family, they often attach great importance to the typical customs of the homeland, especially in the great marriage that affects the happiness of their children and grandchildren, the more they need to pay attention.

If the two of you are close to each other, the difference may not be large, but if in two different areas, especially two separate regions, there will definitely be jobs that need to be prepared separately for each family.

3. Accommodation after the wedding

After getting married, the two of you will live together, so if you can't live where you want to be, make sure the other person feels uncomfortable.

You can live separately, live in your husband's house or live in your wife's house. But wherever there is a need to exchange ideas between the two.

4. The problem of children

Children are one of the most important issues that have a great impact on married life of couples. This requires harmony from both sides. So you two need to frankly talk to each other so that the new life of happy marriage is not affected.

One of the first issues to agree on is the time of childbirth. It is possible that someone wants to have a baby right after getting married, the other person wants to have time to concentrate on his career. How many children and sons or daughters are also one of the most common conflicts, not only between couples, but also in both families.

5. The career of two people after marriage

Talk to each other about your future career aspirations to come to mutual respect. You want your partner to continue to do his or her current job, develop a career change or stop for home care. This is especially important for women, because many boys have a patriarchal or ideological personality, preferring their wives to stay at home to do housework after marriage. So don't wait until the wedding is over to mention this. Chances are, you two will have different views.

6. Division of housework

Do you decide to hire a maid or deal with the housework yourself? And if so, who will take care of these jobs in the two of you? Will the two people be willing to help each other with simple tasks such as washing dishes, getting to know the house, collecting furniture, watering plants . in their free time? If you come home from work late, will he help you cook rice, wash clothes .?

You have been under a lot of pressure, tired, handling a lot of work at the company and when you get home, you have to cook and clean everything. Wedding life is not as perfect as you imagine. Surely this will make you more irritable and cause a conflict between the two.

You finished reading the article "In order not to have a conflict after the wedding, the couples need to agree on the following" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.