

In terms of size, where does the human being stand for a dinosaur?

Taking the size of an average man 168cm high, 46cm wide to compare with prehistoric dinosaurs such as Brachiosaurus or tyrannical dinosaurs, humans are really small. But for many other small dinosaurs such as velociraptor, troodon ... our species is far superior in size.

Taking the size of an average man 168cm high, 46cm wide to compare with prehistoric dinosaurs such as Brachiosaurus or tyrannical dinosaurs, humans are really small. But for many other small dinosaurs such as velociraptor, troodon . our species is far superior in size.

1. T-rex dinosaur confronts Titanoboa, the largest giant python in Earth's history
2. 10 prehistoric giant animals are easily confused with dinosaurs

The human-size comparison video with each of the dinosaurs below will help us see where the human being stands of a dinosaur.

You finished reading the article "In terms of size, where does the human being stand for a dinosaur?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.