

Instagram added features to add friends to the live stream video

Yesterday, Instagram upgraded its app by adding a feature to add friends to live video on Android and iOS.

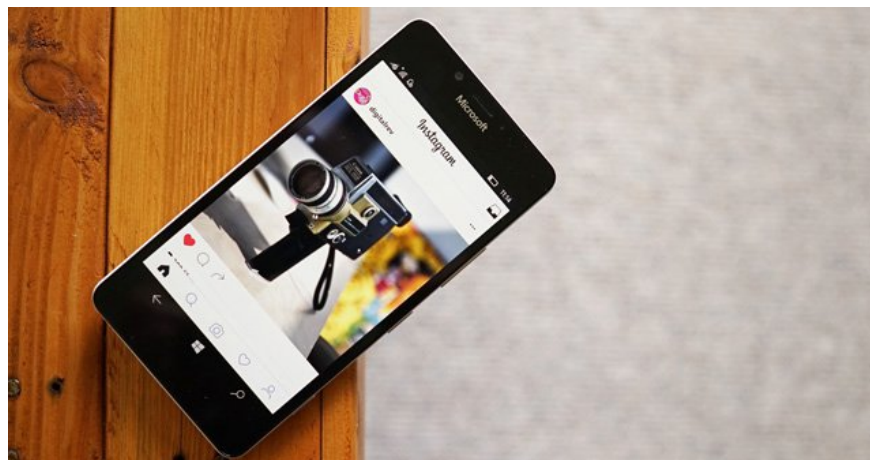

Yesterday, Instagram upgraded its app by adding a feature to add friends to live video on Android and iOS.

Instagram is competing fiercely with apps that have live video streaming services, so it has also added new features to its application.

In August, the company tested the new feature on a small group of users such as the expansion of live video and messaging features - a feature that was launched a year ago.

1. How to download, download Instagram videos
2. How to post photos to Instagram from a computer

This new Instagram feature allows people playing online videos, adding anyone to their videos by pressing the Add button in the corner of the screen. When a person is added to the video live stream, the person will appear in a separate window below your screen. However, currently, when using Instagram's live stream video, you can only add one person at a time, meaning that if you want to add other users to your video, you must delete the person who is live stream with you.

These friends' videos are similar to other live stream videos, meaning you can delete after playing or saving to play as stories, then share on Facebook as Facebook Stories.

Adding this new feature is a step in the right direction for Instagram to increase the number of users and use of its services.

You finished reading the article "Instagram added features to add friends to the live stream video" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

---