

Instructions for activating notifications for sharing screenshots on Android phones

Google has just allowed users to enable sharing screenshots directly in recent updates. So how to activate this feature?

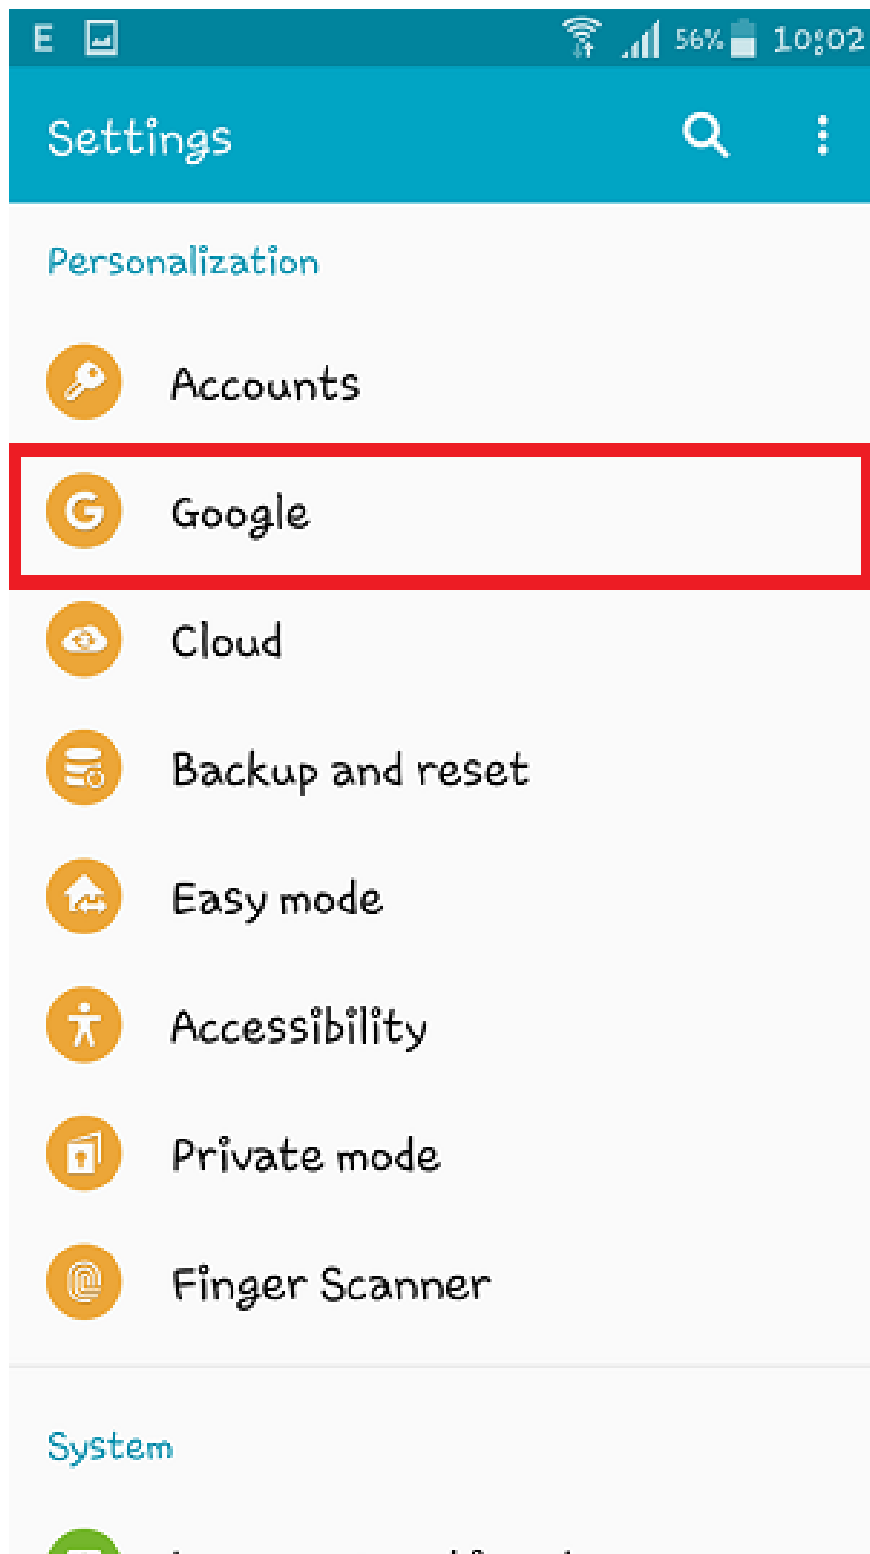

To meet the increasing demands of users, the Android operating system always tries to constantly update many new features to help users more convenient in managing and using their devices. Accordingly, a series of smart features have been launched combining with new update packages for users. Recently, Google has updated the notification feature to allow users to edit or share screenshots after use. If you have not updated the features and how to use this application, please see the instructions below of Network Administrator.

Step 1:

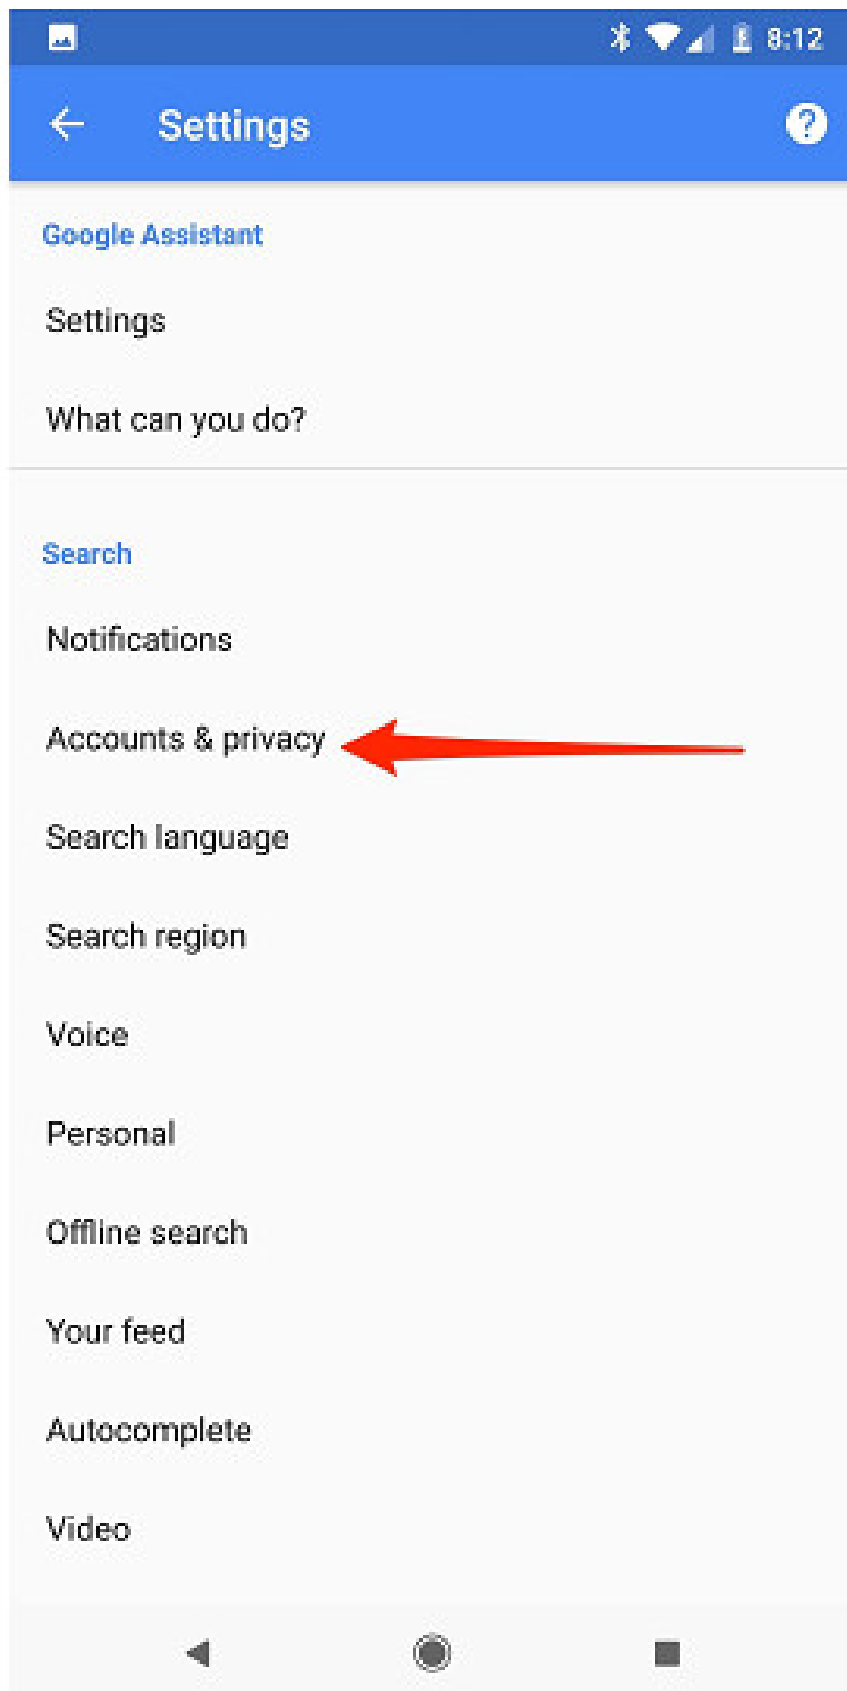

Access Settings (settings) on Android phones

Step 2:

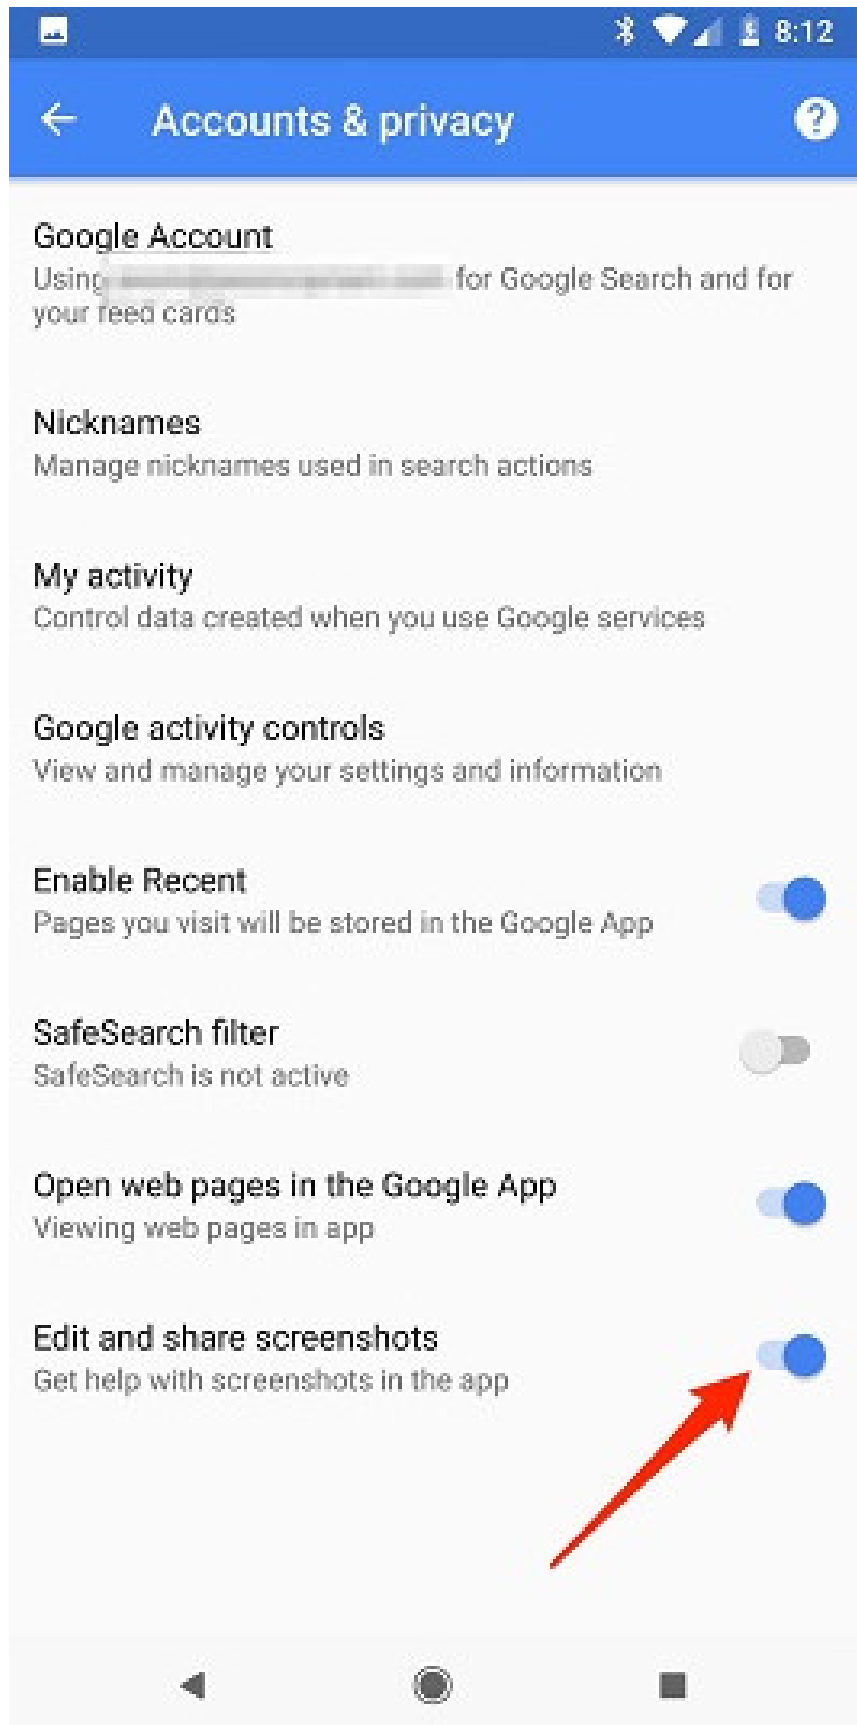

Scroll down the screen and click on the Google menu.

Step 3:

Continue to find and select Account & Security (Accounts & Privacy) and access this menu.

Step 4:

Here you need to swipe left to activate the Edit and Share Screenshots (Edit and Share Screenshot).

Step 5: Check the results

EDIT SHARE

After successfully activating the feature, every time a user takes a screen of your device (usually press the power button and volume down button at the same time). The device will notify the screen shot that has been activated, from here, the user has two additional options, including editing or sharing the recently taken photos for friends through support applications.

So you've just watched the tutorial to share and edit screenshots on Android phones more easily by activating the notification provided by Google in the settings.

I wish you all success!
