

Instructions for changing Windows 10 wallpaper timer

There are a lot of people who like to automatically change the background image with the selected images on the computer. So how can I set the automatic timer to switch wallpaper on Windows 10

Many people want to change the style for Windows 10 computers by changing the background and using the random wallpaper changer by the hour. When setting a schedule to change the wallpaper, the computer will automatically change the wallpaper randomly or in the order of the user-selected image. In this article, Network Administrator will show you how to schedule wallpaper changes on Windows 10.

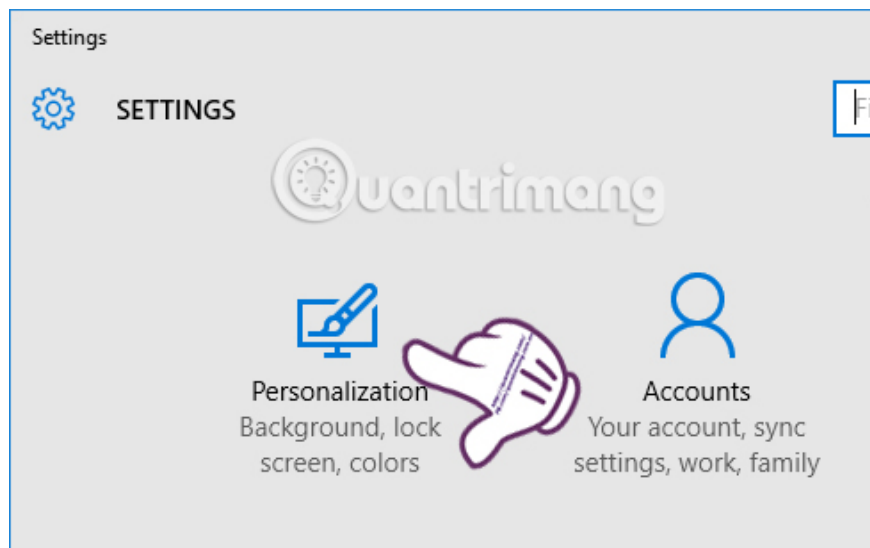

Step 1:

At Windows 10 Desktop interface, click the Windows window icon and select Settings or the reader uses Windows + I key combination to open the Settings window.

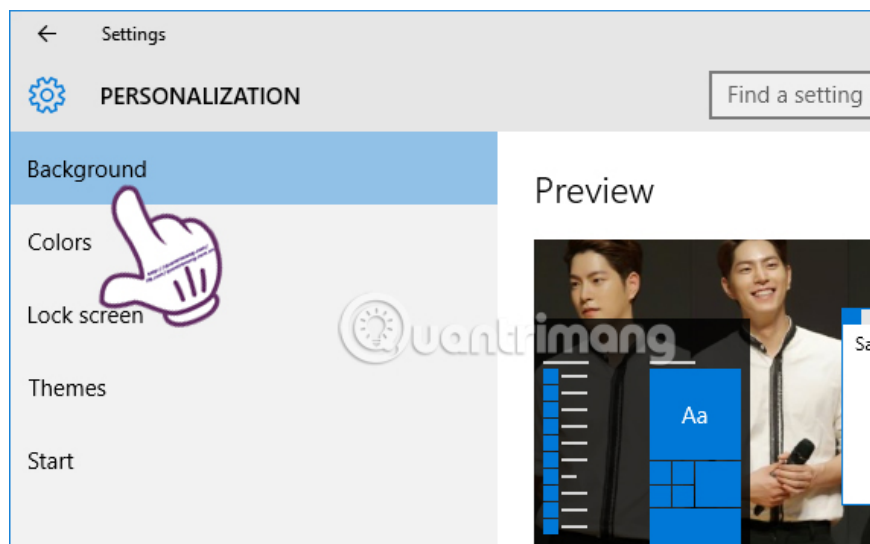

Step 2:

At the Settings interface, we click on Personalization .

Step 3:

Next to the Personalization interface, in the left menu you read the Background item to change the wallpaper for Windows 10 computers.

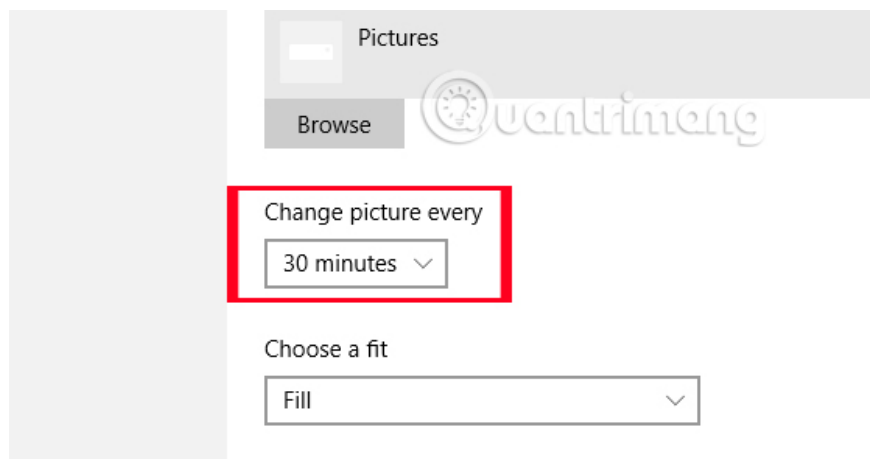

Step 4:

Looking at the interface on the right, the Background item at the bottom, you will click on the drop-down arrow and select Slideshow to activate the automatic change of wallpaper on the computer according to the selected pictures.

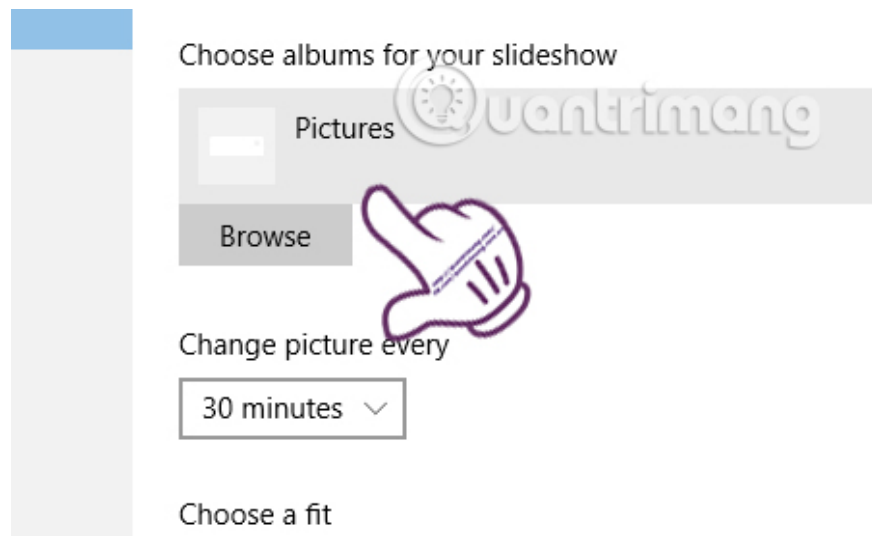

Step 5:

Once in Slideshow mode, we will see Change picture every section appear. This section will allow users to set the time for the computer to automatically change the wallpaper. The maximum time to change the wallpaper on Windows 10 is 1 day and a minimum of 1 minute. Click on the arrow to select the time you want to automatically change the wallpaper.

Step 6:

Section Picture , when clicking Browse , the user will select the folder containing the image that wants to change the wallpaper on Windows 10 computer.

So your computer has been changed completely in style, strange and far more toxic. The wallpaper will automatically convert according to the time we set. If you don't want to use the wallpaper change timer mode on your Windows 10 computer, we just need to return to Picture mode for wallpaper to finish.
