

Instructions for creating Gradient effects in Word

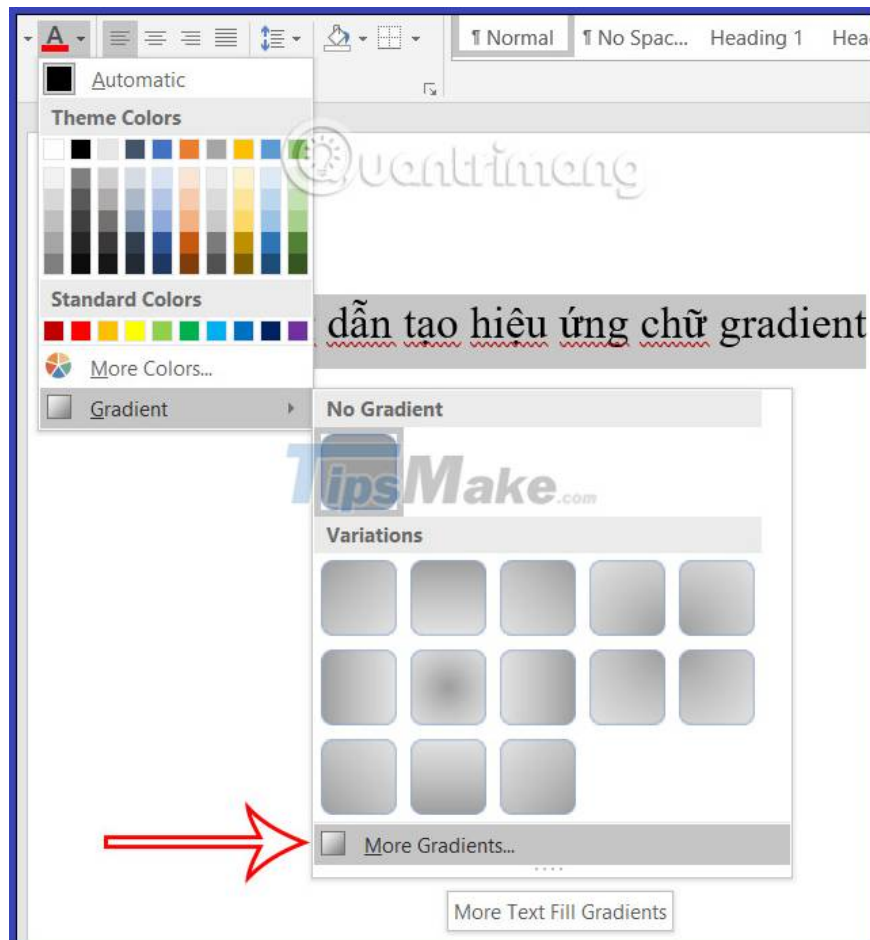

Gradient effects are used a lot in design, such as using the Gradient effect in Photoshop to adjust the color of an image, or using text effects in Word to create beautiful effects for documents.

We can customize to create different gradient effects for the document, create a beautiful gradient style for the text. The following article will guide you to create Gradient effect text in Word.

How to create a Gradient effect in Word

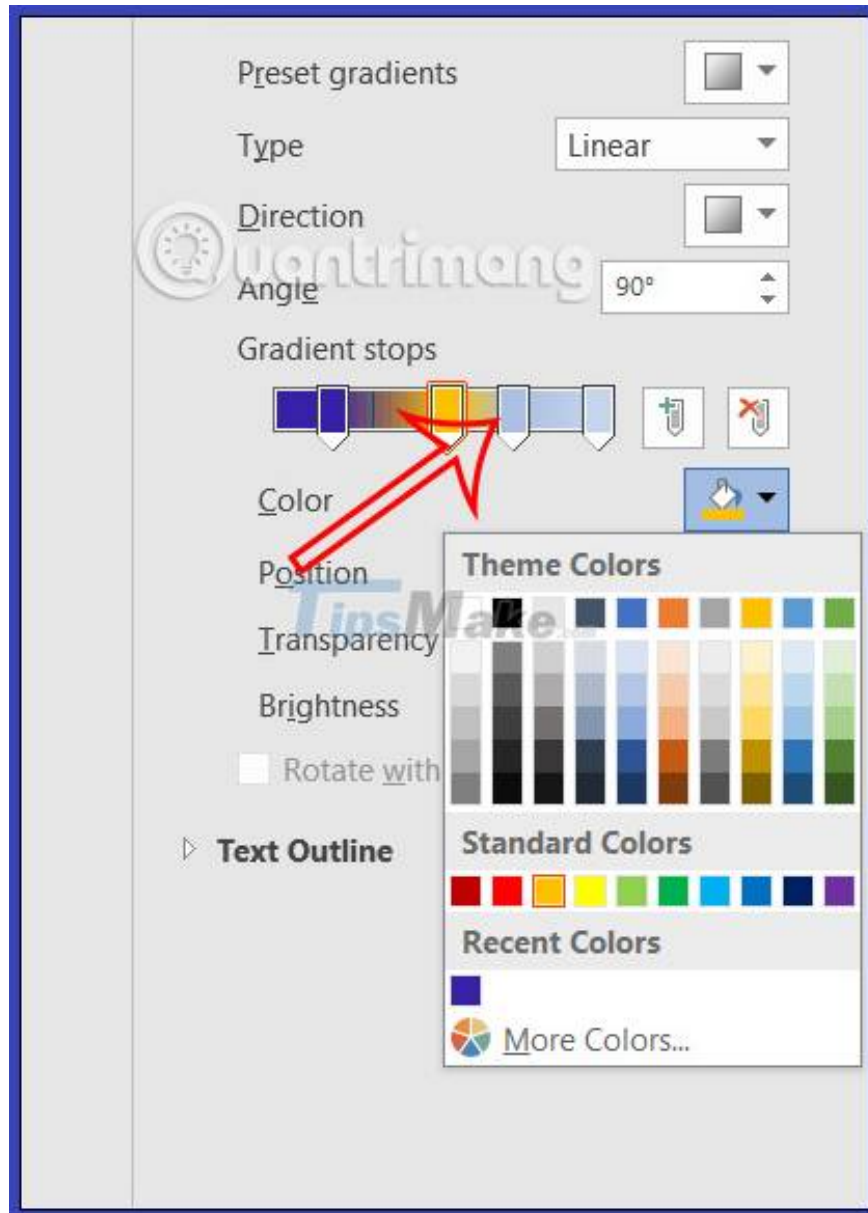

Step 1:

First you highlight the text in Word to create the effect. Next, at Font Color, the user clicks on the Gradient style to select the effect. Next, click More gradients to expand the gradient effect editing interface.

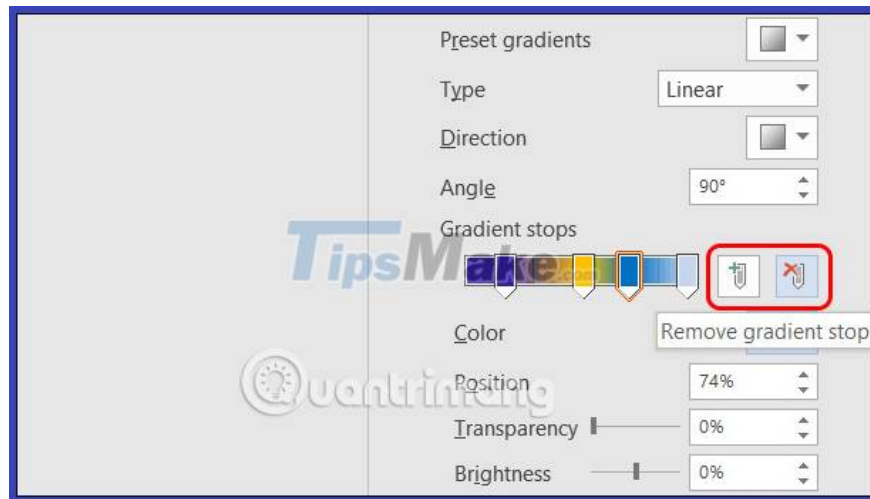

Step 2:

On the right edge of the user screen, click on the Gradient fill item. Next you adjust the color at the Gradient stops. We choose the color in the Color section to choose the color.

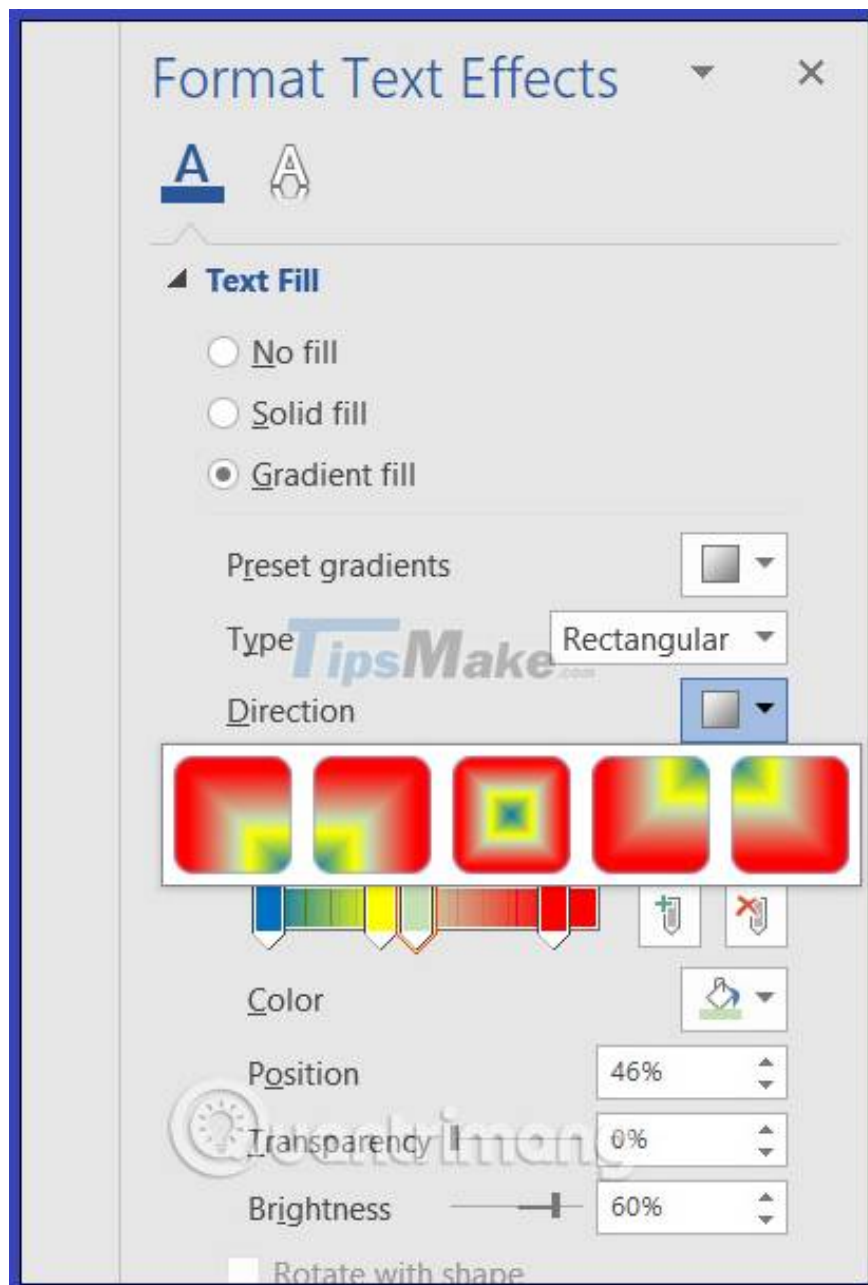

When you click on a point in the Gradient bar, you can choose another color to combine in this color.

If you want to add color points, click the Add gradient stop icon. If you want to remove the newly added color point, click Remove gradient stop.

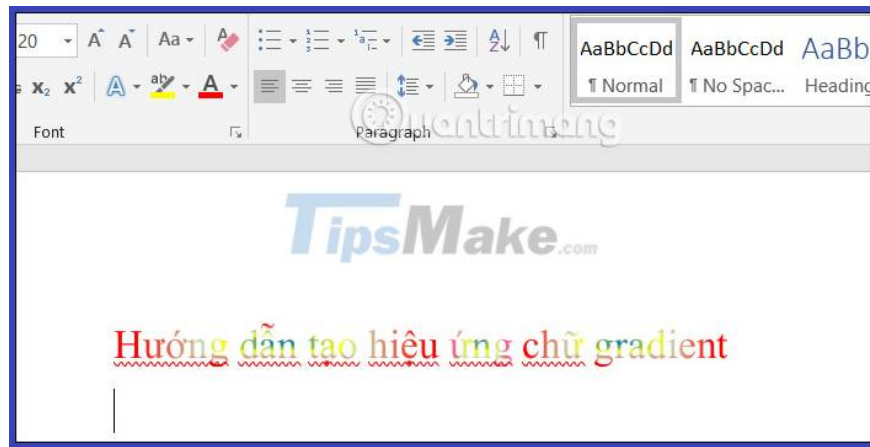

Step 3:

Next you will choose the gradient color direction in the Type and Direction section to choose from.

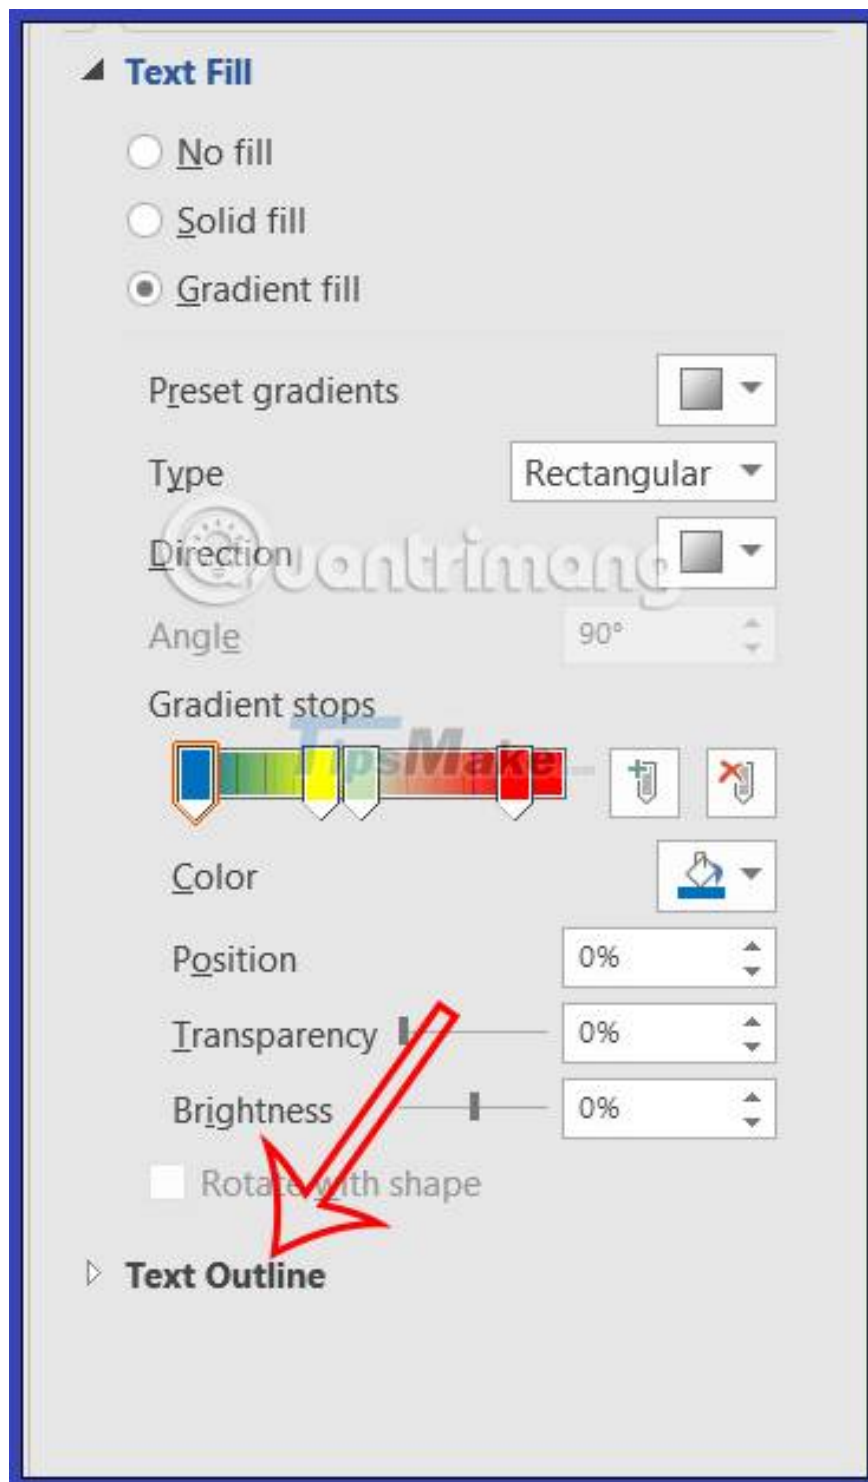

As a result, we get a gradient effect for text in Word as shown below.

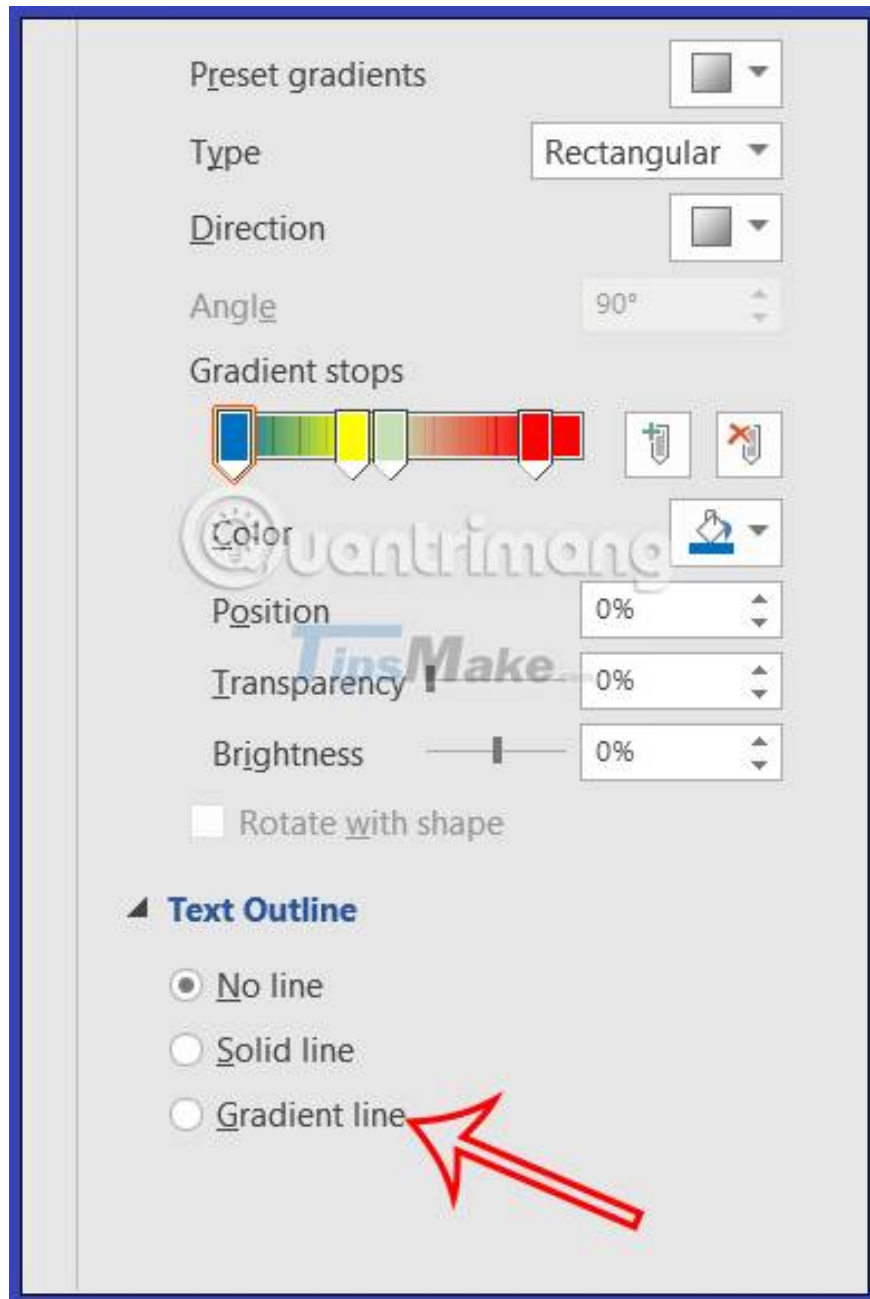

How to create a gradient effect line in Word

Step 1:

You also highlight the text that has the gradient effect. Then in the adjustment bar on the right edge of the interface, click on the Text Outline item to adjust.

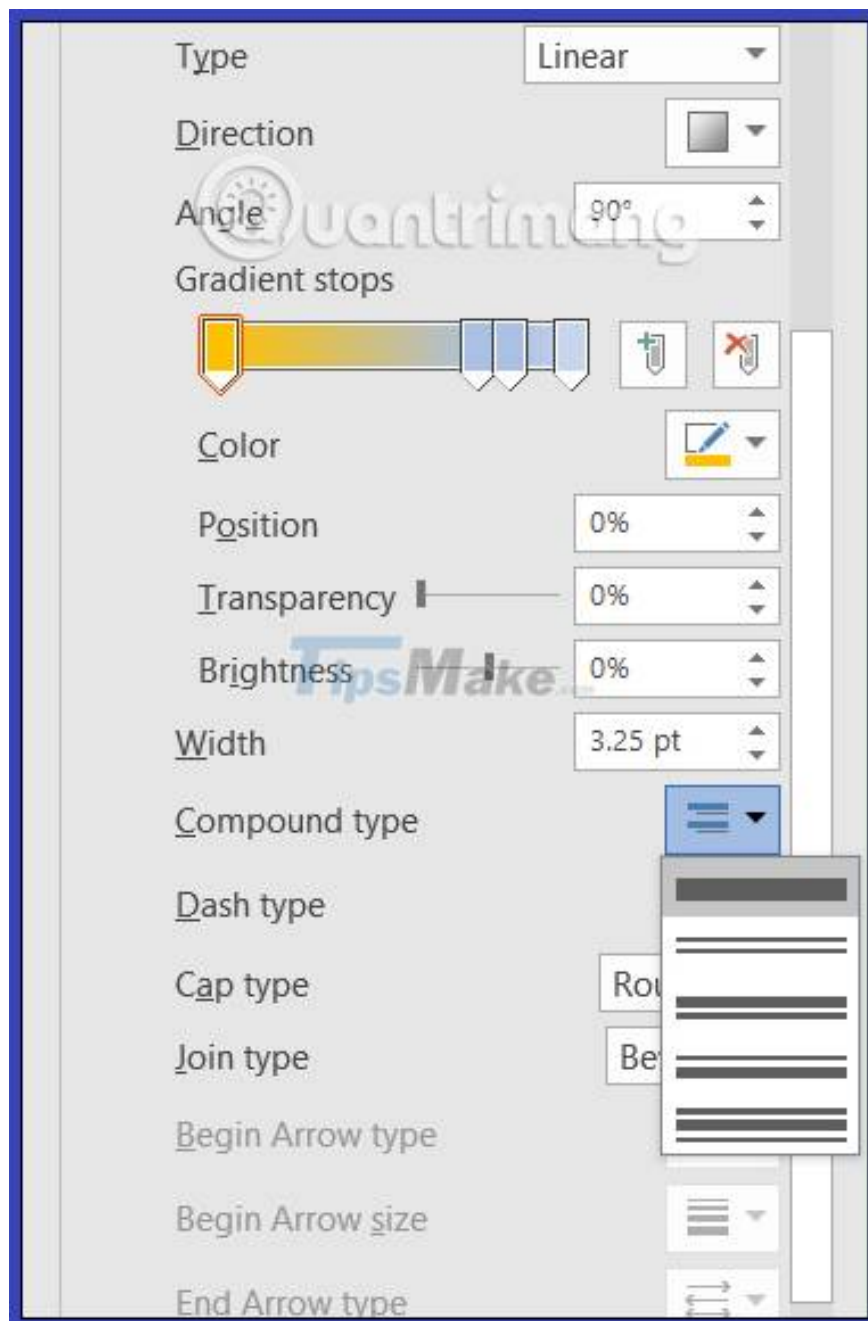

Then the user ticks the Gradient line to adjust more lines in the text.

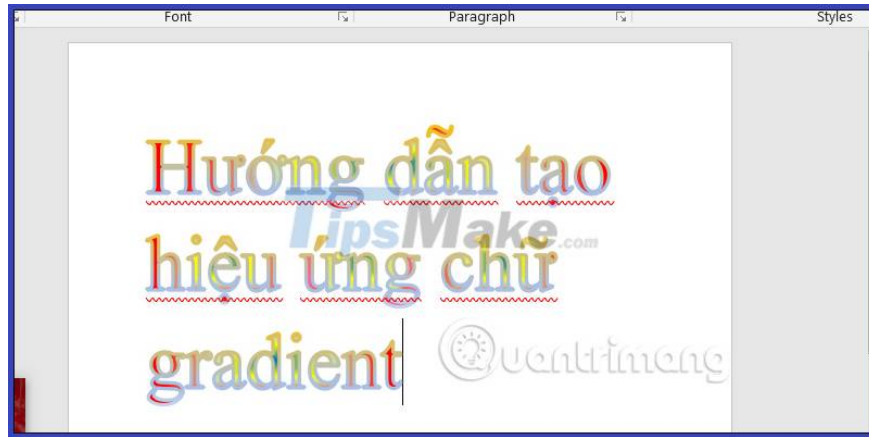

Step 2:

At this point, the user selects the type of text type in the Compound type section, the line size at Width to adjust the width of the text.

The resulting text has a line effect for the gradient text in Word.

You finished reading the article "Instructions for creating Gradient effects in Word" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
