Genshin Impact players can start downloading the game's latest update early and get it before version 2.7 goes live. Genshin Impact 2.7 will bring new content to the game, including new missions, characters, and more. Genshin Impact has implemented the preset function, which will be available from May 27 to May 31, 2022.

Players can use the preset function to download some of the upcoming game resources of patch 2.7. The preset function pack size will vary from 6 GB to 26 GB depending on the current platform. Existing presets will also involve file restructuring, so players are advised to use a Wi-Fi connection to download game files that are too large.

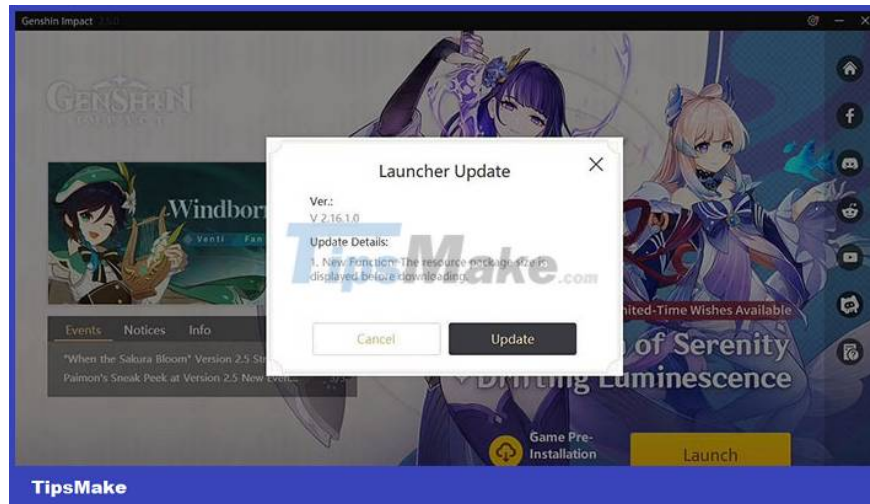

Genshin Impact 2.7 will officially begin maintenance on May 31 at 6 a.m. UTC + 8. As usual, this maintenance will last around 5 hours, giving players plenty of time to prepare for the upcoming events. Genshin Impact latest content.

In this article, let's learn how to pre-load Genshin Impact 2.7 across platforms, helping gamers experience this version as soon as possible.

How to pre-download Genshin impact 2.7 on PC

For gamers who choose PC as their platform to play Genshin Impact, pre-installing is as easy as opening the game's official launcher.

PC players will need to upgrade their launcher before pre-installing new resources. Once this feature is available, the launcher update will automatically pop up when Traveler opens it. However, if it doesn't show up, tap Settings (gear icon) in the top right corner to update it manually.

Click the Game Pre-Installation icon that will appear next to the yellow Launch button to start the pre-installation. This process may take some time depending on internet speed, but once the preload is completed, players just need to wait for the update to be officially released.

How to pre-download Genshin Impact 2.7 on mobile phones

Mobile pre-installation can be completed in two quick and easy ways. The first method can be completed as soon as the gamer opens the game:

Tap the little cloud icon at the bottom left of Genshin Impact's start screen. Then select the preinstall resource pack and allow the download to start.

If you enter the game too quickly and skip the start screen, you can still start the preset through the in-game settings:

Tap on the Paimon icon in the top left corner to bring up the Paimon menu , navigate to the Settings tab and select the Other option .

Click the Pre-Install Resource Package button first and then tap Confirm to start pre-installing the latest Genshin Impact 2.7 update.
