

Instructions for using Snap feature on Windows 10 with shortcut

Snap on Windows 10 is completely different than on Windows 7 and 8. With Windows 10, you can flexibly move or resize open application windows throughout the screen position easily. based on new shortcut keys.

Snap on Windows 10 is completely different than on Windows 7 and 8. With Windows 10, you can flexibly move or resize open application windows throughout the screen position easily. based on new shortcut keys.

So what are the specific key combinations in the Snap feature of Windows 10? Please refer to the following immediately.

Hold down the Windows key + Left or Windows arrow + The right arrow will correspond to narrow the Windows window to the left or right of the screen

Hold down the Windows key + The up arrow or Windows + The down arrow will correspond to the narrowing operation of the Windows window to the top or bottom of the screen.

Holding down the Windows key + pressing 2 times the Left arrow key will narrow the Windows window to the upper corner of the screen.

Similarly, when you hold down the Windows key + press 2 times left Arrow key and press 1 more time under the arrow key , the Windows window will immediately expand below.

Holding down the Windows key + the Right arrow key will narrow down the Windows window to a quarter of the screen, and when you press the Down arrow again, the Windows window will expand right below.

Holding down the Windows key + pressing 2 times the Up Arrow key will cause the Windows window to shrink in the upward direction.

Similarly, if you hold down the Windows key + press the right arrow key and press the downward arrow to add the result as shown below.

You finished reading the article "Instructions for using Snap feature on Windows 10 with shortcut" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.