In particular, Google Messages also supports the direct link function with PC to give users more flexible use. If you are wondering about how to use Google Messages on your computer, find out below.

Use Google Messages on your computer

Google Messages is installed as the default messaging application on many Android phones, such as the Google Pixel or Samsung Galaxy. However, the Android world is famous for its richness in experience. Each manufacturer may have separate messaging applications developed by themselves. So, in case you don't have Google Messages on your phone, just download the app from the Play Store and follow the instructions.

Step 1: On your computer, launch any browser and visit the Google Message website.

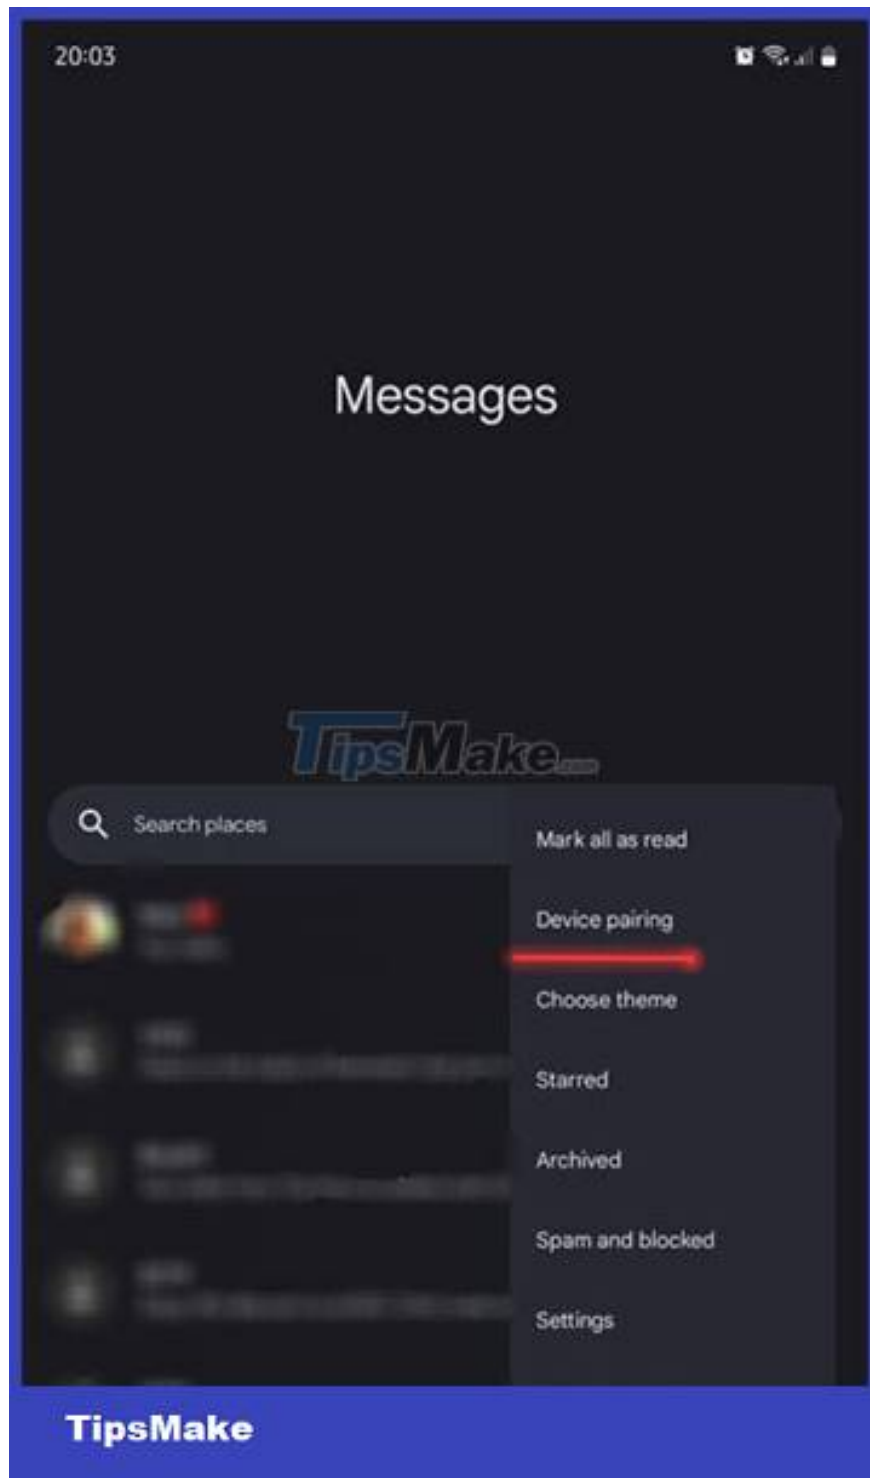

Step 2: At the top right of the website interface, you will find the Messages for web button, click on it.

Step 3: A link will open, asking you to open the Google Messages app on your phone and follow the instructions below.

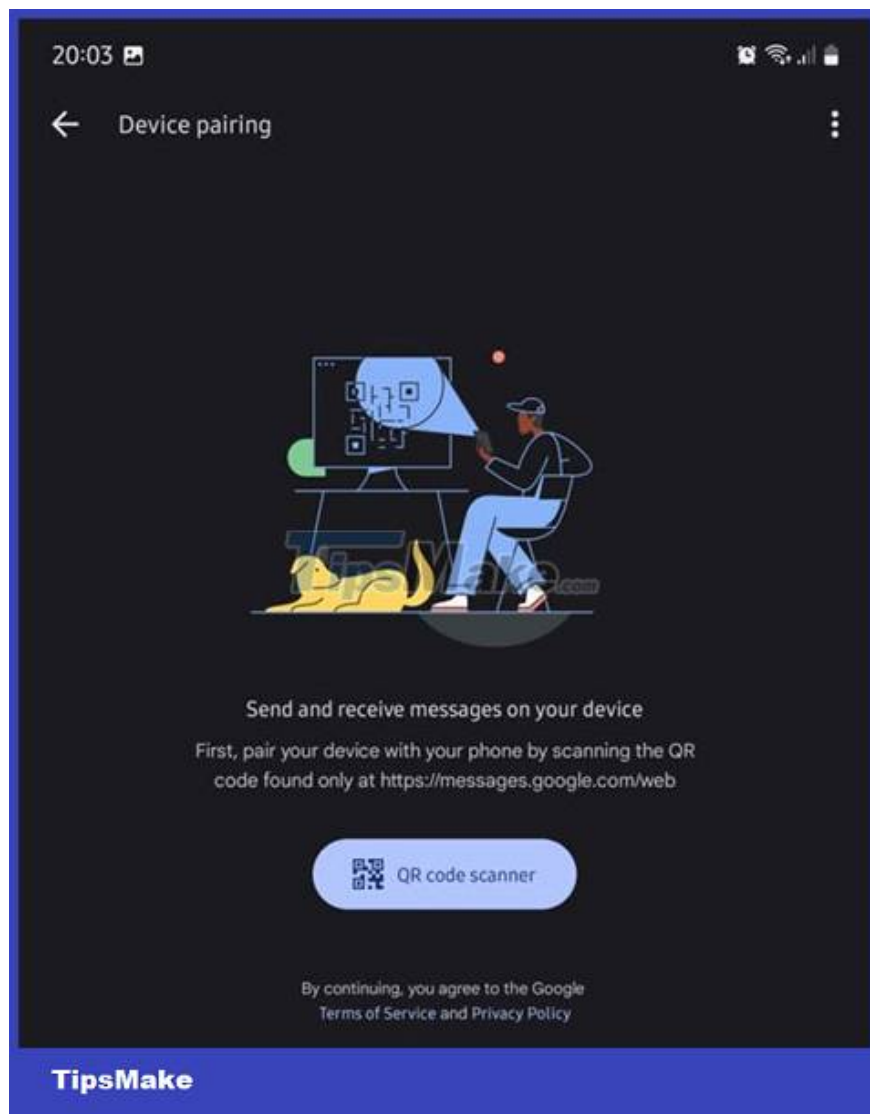

Step 4: Now open the Messages app on your phone.

Step 5: Click the Device Pairing item from the menu of additional items that you can find in the upper right corner of the application interface.

Step 6: In the next window that appears, just go ahead and click on the QR code scanner button.

Step 7: This will open the QR code scanner, now you have to point your phone's camera at the QR code showing on the screen. Both the website and the Messages app will reload, and after a few seconds, all of your inbox should now be fully visible in the browser on the PC side.

It's all simply that. Hope you are successful.
