Instructions on how to replace printer ink in the simplest way

Replacing the printer cartridge can be done easily if you follow these steps:

Step 1: Remove the printer drum cover

On the printer cartridge, you will see two small white stainless steel latches on either side. Use a flathead screwdriver to gently pry up the latches. Then, use needle-nose pliers to pull them out.

Step 2: Remove the printer drum

Use a screwdriver to unscrew the 2 screws at the top of the drum gear. Then remove the drum carefully so as not to reduce the print quality. If the new cartridge has a sticker over the screw, pay attention to remove the 2 screws.

Step 3: Pour out excess ink and clean the printer's wiper and shaft.

During the use of the printer, there will be excess ink remaining in the machine. To empty the excess ink, you need to remove the drum, then remove the rubber shaft and unscrew the 2 screws on the large wiper. Next, you proceed to empty the excess ink located under the large wiper. After emptying the waste ink, use paper or a dry cloth to clean the wiper and rubber shaft.

Step 4: Refill printer ink

After removing excess ink, cleaning all machine components and checking the parts, you need to remove the ink refill cap and pour in new ink (you can use a funnel to avoid spilling ink).

Step 5: Assemble the refilled cartridge

After you have finished refilling the ink cartridge, reassemble the two parts of the cartridge. Install the latches on both sides of the cartridge, then install the spring to pull the two pieces together. Finally, clean the outside of the cartridge.

Step 6: Reinstall the cartridges and test

Finally, you reinstall the cartridge into the printer and print a test to check. If the print is clear, not blurred or has black dots, then the printer cartridge replacement process is complete.

Always follow the manufacturer's instructions and perform the toner replacement procedure carefully to ensure your printer performs well and produces quality prints.
