Although today is not the April fishing day, but it's okay, sometimes change some air so people can get back to their refreshing working spirit. For those who regularly use computers, the most frightening thing for them is the screen interface suddenly becomes a green or Windows Update screen.

Note : This method works fine on every version of Windows or browser.

First of all, you need to grasp the opportunity when the owner of the computer goes out, not locking the computer screen. Now you just need to visit the following website: Fake Windows Update Screens

Above is the main interface of the screen. At this point, you just need to select the model to troll your friends, here are quite a lot of samples: Update MacOs screen, Windows blue screen, Windows 98 / XP / 7/8/10 update screen, Wannacry virus . Click on the template and finally you just need to press F11, so that's it, wait for the victim's response.

I wish you all success!
