

Instructions to save screenshots directly to Dropbox

Along with OneDrive and Google Drive, Dropbox is one of the reputable services in the cloud storage area. Recently, this Dropbox service has added automatic saving and downloading screenshots on Windows. If you often have to take screenshots, this feature will become more and more useful. Let's see how to save screenshots directly to Dropbox in the article below.

Along with OneDrive and Google Drive, Dropbox is one of the reputable services in the cloud storage area. Recently, this Dropbox service has added automatic saving and downloading screenshots on Windows. If you often have to take screenshots, this feature will become more and more useful. Let's see how to save screenshots directly to Dropbox in the article below.

1. How to send files from Google Drive, Dropbox on Zalo PC
2. Effective support services for Dropbox

How to save screenshots directly to Dropbox

First, you need to install the Dropbox application on your computer and make sure you are using the latest version.

Download the Dropbox app

After the installation is complete, try taking the screenshot again. You will see a message prompting you on the screen to ask if you want to download (upload) future screen shots automatically. Please select Save screenshots to Dropbox .

If you have used Dropbox for a while, follow the instructions below:

1. Double click on the Dropbox icon in the Taskbar.
2. Then, click the gear icon.
3. Select Preferences from the menu that appears. Then click Import.
4. Check the box next to the Share screenshots using Dropbox .

1. To turn off this feature, go to Gear > Preferences > Import and uncheck the Share screenshots using Dropbox.

Did you find this feature on the Dopbox useful? Let us know by commenting below.

You finished reading the article "Instructions to save screenshots directly to Dropbox" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.