

Instructions to turn off promotional notifications from iPhone Wallet

The Wallet app on iPhone receives all notifications, including notifications about offers and ads. If you find them annoying, you can completely turn off promotional notifications from iPhone Wallet.

By default, the Wallet app on iPhone always receives all notifications, including notifications about promotions and advertisements. Not everyone wants to receive these notifications because they affect you and are unnecessary. If so, you can completely turn off promotional notifications from iPhone Wallet.

How to turn off promotion notifications from iPhone Wallet

Step 1:

First, open the Wallet app on your iPhone, then tap the 3-dot icon in the top right corner of the app.

Once turned off, you will no longer receive notifications about special offers and discounts through the Wallet app, but will still receive important transaction and payment alerts.

You can also manage order notifications, track shipping and delivery updates, control alerts for pre-authorized payments like subscriptions and recurring charges, and decide whether you want to receive notifications about new Wallet features and app improvements as Apple releases them.
