

Internet Explorer 8 Beta 2 officially appears

Finally today (August 28), Microsoft also officially released Beta 2 version of Internet Explorer 8 browser that supports English, German, Japanese and Chinese.

The complete version of Internet Explorer 8 will appear later this year.

Finally today (August 28), Microsoft also officially released Beta 2 version of Internet Explorer 8 browser that supports English, German, Japanese and Chinese. From now on, users can download the program to use.

This browser version can work on Windows XP, Windows Vista, Windows Vista x64, Windows Server 2003 and Windows Server 2003 x64 operating systems.

One of the many features mentioned in Internet Explorer 8 Beta 2 is InPrivate Browsing, which allows you to browse the web without saving any cookie information; as well as passwords, keywords typed in the address bar, search queries, temporary Internet files, or form data from previous browsing sessions.

Internet Explorer 8 Beta 2 has many security changes compared to Opera, Apple Safari and Mozilla Firefox. It's the anti-malware tool "SmartScreen Filter", the 'Cross-site scripting' anti-attack filter and many other features.

Microsoft said that the new version of Internet Explorer (currently accounting for 75% of the market share) would be easier to use and more secure. Users can download Internet Explorer 8 Beta 2 here.

You finished reading the article "Internet Explorer 8 Beta 2 officially appears" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

---