In addition, iOS 13 on iPad will support running multiple application windows at once with each window separated so that users can move flexibly in the screen or stick to one side of the screen.

Safari improvements and undo gestures for iPad

Unlike its predecessor, iOS 13 will bring new and more elegant undo gestures, users just need to put three fingers simultaneously on the keyboard and then swipe right or left to 'redo' or 'cancel' previously entered text fragments.

The way Safari works on iOS 13 is also changed. Currently, the search engine will automatically pull the mobile page when the site is fully compatible with the iPad, to enter the site normally users are forced to touch the Request Desktop Site. However, with iOS 13, when it detects any incompatible website, Safari will display the page to the computer by default.

Upgrade Mail, Reminders, Volume HUD .

On iOS 13, emails will be sorted by categories such as travel, purchase, marketing and accompanied by search options.

HUD volumes are also redesigned and major upgrades make it easier for users to manage fonts. There will be a new font management panel displayed in the Settings app that provides access to fonts instead of requiring the installation of different configurations like the current one.

Reminders are redesigned with a new UI interface for the volume display.

Keyboard supports multiple languages.

Hey Siri improved on voice recognition.
