

iPhone 16 Pro will have two new color options

The high-end iPhone 16 Pro line that will launch later this year will have two new color options: Rose and Space Black.

The iPhone 16 Pro series will have two new color options. (Photo: Getty)

Accordingly, information that the iPhone 16 Pro will have two new colors was revealed on a Weibo account and then widely shared on media platforms. The first new color option mentioned is Rose, a metallic bronze tone, a unique combination of luxury and modernity, similar to the Rose Gold color that appeared on the iPhone 8.

The introduction of this new color could lead to the removal of the Blue Titanium color, similar to the Deep Purple color disappearing on the iPhone 14 Pro when the new generation was introduced.

More specifically, the Space Black color will also return, bringing style and modernity, especially suitable for those who own the new MacBook Pro M3 Pro.

A source also said that the white color option will be similar to the silver color on the iPhone 14 Pro, unlike the White Titanium color from the iPhone 15 Pro series. The Gray color on the iPhone 16 Pro is expected to be a new version of the Natural Titanium color, with a darker color than the previous generation.

For non-Pro iPhone 16 versions, it is expected that there will be more vivid color options, just like Apple's tradition.

Additionally, other rumors related to the iPhone 16 series, such as the addition of a camera button and a newly improved Pro processor for AI, are also widely circulating. Notably, iPhone 16 Pro and iPhone 16 Pro Max are expected to have larger screens, 6.3 and 6.9 inches respectively.

You finished reading the article "iPhone 16 Pro will have two new color options" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
