Images of one of the three iPhone models that Apple may release in September, iPhone XR 2019, with many different color options, have recently been shared by an accessory manufacturer.

Accordingly, iPhone XR 2019 will use metallic gold tones and lighter than the yellow color available in iPhone XR.

A new series of photos about the iPhone XR 2019 shows that Apple has changed the color scheme of the back of this product. The camera cluster has been upgraded to a dual-lens, convex and large-sized camera cluster in black, completely different from the common color of the dorsal surface. The iPhone XR 2019 may not have many colors with 6 different options like last year, instead of Apple's traditional colors like black, white and gold metal. In addition, iPhone 2019 may have a special version of Red Product (red version).

Recent leaked information shows that three new 2019 iPhone models may be announced by Apple in September to include iPhone XR 2019, an upgrade of iPhone XS and XS Max.

In addition to the new color, the 2019 iPhone XR is likely to retain the 6.1-inch screen size, using Apple's upcoming A13 chip, and will be the last iPhone model to be equipped with an LCD screen.
