

'Iron Man' Robert Downey Jr. Founder of the Alliance to clean the earth with AI and robots

Robert Downey Jr. announced that he would launch a 'great people alliance' led by himself, working together to clean the earth, as well as change the public's thinking about granting set of environmental protection.

Our Ironman was sacrificed almost 2 months ago, but it was in the Marvel cinema universe with the battle against Thanos evil. Real life's "Iron Man" Robert Downey Jr. of course still living happily, living well, and even decided to spend more time devoting to meaningful community campaigns. The Hollywood actor wants to continue his noble mission in real life, not just the genius billionaire Tony Stark in the movie. Recently, Robert Downey Jr. has announced that he will launch a "great people alliance" by himself, working together for the purpose of cleaning up the earth, as well as changing the thinking of the community. about the urgency of protecting the environment, using high-tech devices such as robots and artificial intelligence.

1. 17 signs that the 6th great extinction - the nightmare of humanity is about to sweep through the earth

Speaking at the re-conference: MARS of Amazon is taking place in Las Vegas, the actor recounted a deep story he had heard from scientists about the urgency of protecting the natural environment. , and said it was this story that inspired the new mission of Robert Downey Jr and colleagues: using robots and nanotechnology, we can completely clean the planet in just 10 years.

Robert Downey Jr's plan will be realized through the organization he named Footprint Coalition, and is expected to be officially released in April next year. Now that the actor has yet to reveal more information about the Footprint Coalition and the group's specific activities in the future, however, Robert Downey Jr strongly believes in the positive results his team will bring. after 11 years.

1. The surprising relationship between climate change - birth rate and consequences

Now his wife, Susan Downey, is rushing to complete a series of AI documentaries to be posted on YouTube Premium.

As mentioned, there is not much detailed information about how the project works at this time. However, if you are interested, you can access the official Footprint Coalition website at: <https://footprintcoalition.com/> And register to get the latest updates.

1. How are people using plastic to destroy nature?

You finished reading the article "'Iron Man' Robert Downey Jr. Founder of the Alliance to clean the earth with AI and robots" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.