

Laptops play games with 4K video from Toshiba

The product, called Qosmio X70, uses Intel microprocessors and the latest Nvidia graphics card and sells for more than 40 million dong.

The product, called Qosmio X70, uses Intel microprocessors and the latest Nvidia graphics card and sells for more than 40 million dong.

To serve gamers as a gamer, the Qosmio X70 has four 6W Harman Kardon speakers with DTS Studio Sound sound technology . Dark gray machine design with red border also makes the appearance of the product stand out.

The Qosmio X70 has four Harman Kardon speakers.

Qosmio X70 is equipped with Intel Core processor based on the latest Haswell platform with Nvidia GeForce GTX 770M graphics card with 3 GB GDDR5 VRAM. The Full HD screen of the device is 17.3 inches in size. This model uses HDD with capacity up to 3TB with mSATA SSD 256 GB and maximum RAM is 32 GB.

Laptops playing this game support both USB 2.0 and 3.0 ports. In particular, the product also has HDMI connectivity to enable 4K high definition video output. Some technologies for sharing content on TVs such as Intel WiDi or Miracast are also posted on the Qosmio X70.

Toshiba plans to sell the Qosmio X70 in the third quarter of this year in Europe for 1,495 euros (about 41.8 million dong).

Actual photo of gaming laptop Toshiba Qosmio X70:

The Qosmio X70 uses a 17.3-inch screen with Full HD resolution.

Right side of the machine.

Toshiba's gaming laptop is expected to sell in the third quarter of this year.

Real video gaming laptop Toshiba Qosmio X70:

You finished reading the article "Laptops play games with 4K video from Toshiba" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.