Acer and HP continue to dominate the Asian laptop market in April, taking up 8 out of 10 positions in the list of best-selling products of the month. The other two positions are for Asus Eee PC 701 and Dell XPS M1530.

In April, Asian laptop market was quite exciting with the appearance of a series of new products. The first is two models of Acer Gemstone Blue. Although it was announced in March, it was not until last month that they were officially available in the market.

Asus has also launched the Eee PC 900, with an 8.9-inch screen, while Toshiba is noticeably launching a new series of models from the Satellite and Portege series, with a more stylish and integrated design. Many interesting features such as FM tuner, face detection.

However, more time is needed for these new models to convince Asian consumers. That is confirmed when looking at the list of 10 best-selling laptops in April. There is no new name. Still around are still cheap models of Acer, HP, Asus and Dell's XPS M1530 gaming laptop.

Here are the specific statistics of Asian technology magazine Cnet:

1. Acer Aspire 4920G
