Today with the explosion of applications on smartphones and tablets, internet access on these mobile devices has become more and more popular. However, the built-in web browsers do not really satisfy fastidious customers who regularly browse the web for both work and entertainment purposes. Understanding that need of a large number of users, Opera Software has consistently launched web browser versions for mobile devices.

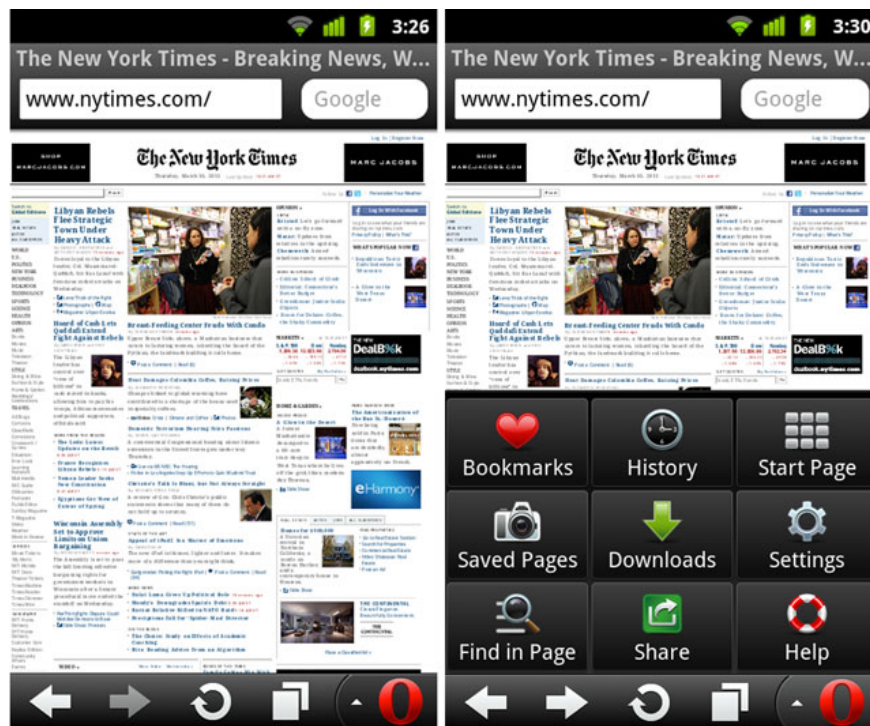

Since its inception, Opera browser has been present on more than 3000 devices with over 100 million users worldwide and become the most popular web browser on mobile devices.

March 22 Opera Software officially launched its latest version of Opera Mini 6 and Opera Mobile 11 for both smartphones and tablets.

' If you feel frustrated with web browsers on your phone or tablet, don't let that bother you. Try one of our browsers, ' said Lars Boilesen, Opera Software's CEO.

Completely free and many improvements

- Optimized for both tablets: Opera for tablet with a completely new interface promises to give users a new experience of web browsing capabilities as well as being fascinated by the speed.

The difference between Opera Mini browser and Opera Mobile browser

- Opera Mini browser uses Opera's servers to transfer and compress web pages to one-tenth of its original size before sending them to your phone. So the data transmission is significantly reduced, web pages will load faster. For the form of payment for usage traffic, Opera Mini browser is the first choice to save your budget.

- Opera Mobile browser gives you a web browsing experience on smartphones and tablets similar to the PC: The magic of HTML5, full web browser with high fidelity. Opera Mobile is the first choice for fast, powerful browsing in an unlimited data Internet environment and Wi-Fi.

- Opera Mini 6 browser runs on many platforms: J2ME, Android, BlackBerry and Symbian / S60.

- Opera Mobile 11 browser also runs well on Android, Symbian, Windows 7 desktop (trial version), MeeGo (trial version) and Maemo (trial version).
