

- Redmi 9 and Redmi 9A : These are the successor to the Redmi 8 and Redmi 8A duo introduced last year, are cheap smartphones from the sub-brand Redmi.

Redmi Note 9 Pro Max

- Redmi Note 9S + : International version of Redmi Note 9 Pro Max (once introduced in India in early March). However, it is quite absurd that this device will not be launched in other markets outside of India until Q3.

Redmi K30 Pro

- POCO X2 Pro : As is known, POCO X2 was launched in India and is the renamed version of Redmi K30 4G. Therefore, it is likely that POCO X2 Pro is the international version of the newly launched Redmi K30 Pro.

- Mi 10T : This is also a renamed version of Redmi K30, but directed towards the European market. Last year, Redmi launched K20 in Europe with the name Mi 9T, so Mi 10T could be the Redmi K30 4G.

Redmi K30 Pro Zoom Edition

- Mi 10T Pro : The successor to Mi 9T Pro (Redmi K20 Pro) and the Redmi K30 Pro Zoom Edition has been renamed.
- Redmi X10 4G / POCO F2 / Mi 10S : Despite pushing for 5G this year, Xiaomi will continue to launch 4G smartphones. The Redmi X10 will be the prelude to the all-new X series, which will then be sold in other markets with the new names POCO X2 and Mi 10S.
- Redmi X10 5G / POCO F2 Pro 5G / Mi 10S + 5G : 5G version of the aforementioned models. Of course, they will likely come with specifications and features that are completely different from the 4G version.

The rendered image of Mi 6 2020 is shared on Weibo

- Mi 7 2020 : Xiaomi skipped 7, launching Mi 8 as Mi 6's successor Mi 6 2020 or Mi 7 2020 will be called.
- Mi CC10 / Mi 10 Lite : The successor to Mi CC9, the first product to be produced based on a collaboration between Xiaomi and Meitu. The device will come with some interesting features when it comes to the camera, possibly launched in China as Mi CC10, sold in international markets with the other name Mi 10 Lite.

Mi CC9

- Mi MIX 4 and Mi MIX 4S : Last year, Xiaomi launched Mi MIX Alpha - a concept phone with a screen surrounding the body. However, this smartphone so far has not officially launched and has a high price. This year, Xiaomi will introduce a successor to the Mi MIX 3, including two flagship models, Mi MIX 4 and Mi MIX 4S.

- Mi Zero : At present, it is not clear how this device will have a design. However, through the name, we can speculate that it will be a concept phone without "holes" like Meizu Zero.

You finished reading the article "Leaked list of smartphones that Xiaomi will launch in the third quarter of this year?" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.