

LEEHUR V8, the cheapest call-listen watch in the world, priced at only 9USD

For only $ 9, you absolutely can own a watch that can be inserted with a SIM to listen and call like a normal phone.

Didn't hear it wrong! For only $ 9, you absolutely can own a watch that can be inserted with a SIM to listen and call like a normal phone. This product, called LEEHUR V8, is considered the cheapest phone in the world today.

The most outstanding advantage of LEEHUR V8 is the independent SIM slot that allows it to be able to make calls regardless of the smartphone.

With a standalone SIM slot, the LEEHUR V8 watch is the cheapest phone in the world today.

The product frame is made of stainless steel. LEEHUR V8 has 4 colors for users to choose including black, white, red and blue.

LEEHR V8 owns a 1.22-inch touch screen with a resolution of 240 x 240 pixels. The product is equipped with MediaTek MTK6261D processor, 64MB RAM, 128MB of internal memory, supports microSD memory card up to 32 GB.

LEEHR V8 supports Bluetooth 3.0 connection to receive calls and notifications from smartphones. The device is equipped with a battery capacity of 380mAh. The distinguishing feature of LEEHR V8 is that the 1.3MP front camera, Apple Watch and Galaxy Watch do not have this feature. This watch is not water resistant so users need to be careful when washing their hands or wearing it in the rain.

LEEHR V8 only supports GPRS / 2G network, this is a disadvantage of the product because some countries, including Vietnam, have planned to turn off the 2G signal.
