Users can also choose the ActivePen pen on some models. The ActivePen pen can reproduce handwriting just like the user writes on paper, making it ideal for taking notes, sending e-mails or creating presentations. The 12-inch YOGA model has the option of a digital pen and can be attached to the body.

In particular, the 15-inch ThinkPad YOGA is also equipped with Intel's RealSense 3D camera and Lenovo's first laptop to have a 3D camera. Camera RealSense is also a new technology introduced by Intel at the CES 2015 consumer electronics show in the US earlier this year. This is a 3D camera capable of real-time 3D surface and motion tracking with high accuracy, supporting video exchange tasks or scanning small objects for 3D printing applications .

The configuration on the new ThinkPad YOGA machines has also been significantly upgraded. The initial configuration of 12-inch, 14-inch and 15-inch ThinkPad YOGA models are all equipped with 5th generation Intel Core processors, with a choice of discrete graphics for 14-inch and 15-inch models, Windows 8.1 There is the option of vPro technology for managed environments (only on 12-inch models), large storage capacity of up to 1TB and v4 Dolby Home Theater system.

In addition, ThinkPad YOGA devices are preloaded with Lenovo's SHAREit application, which makes it easy to share files between devices. Small business users can choose to add support via Lenovo service packages, such as accident impact protection services, warranty upgrades or priority technical support.

New 12-inch, 14-inch, and 15-inch ThinkPad YOGA models are now ready to order through Lenovo's business partner channels in Vietnam.
