

Lenovo revealed the ThinkPad S3 and S5 duo with aluminum frame design

Lenovo has just revealed that it will soon launch two new mass-market laptops with a beautiful aluminum frame design called Lenovo ThinkPad S3 and S5.

Lenovo has just revealed that it will soon launch two new mass-market laptops with a beautiful aluminum frame design called Lenovo ThinkPad S3 and S5.

Lenovo ThinkPad S3 and S5

The report from Engadget said, 2 laptops are coming out of Lenovo with ThinkPad S3 (Labatt code) and ThinkPad S5 (Guinness code) will have screens of 13 and 15 inches respectively, the frame made from Lightweight and durable aluminum alloy, the outer edge shape at the front along the bottom has been bevelled to create very noticeable innovation. In addition, these two models will be able to come with black and silver covers when released.

There are not many hardware specifications of two ThinkPad laptops yet, but according to many confirmations from some members on the Chinese social network Sina Weibo, the ThinkPad S5 line will be able to be equipped with the device. JBL audio technology

Another Chinese website, Yesky, said the device will soon be released in the Chinese market later this month.

You finished reading the article "Lenovo revealed the ThinkPad S3 and S5 duo with aluminum frame design" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

