Offcanvas, or horizontal sliding menus, can be easily created in Bootstrap 5. Below is how to create a horizontal menu or Offcanvas using Bootstrap 5 .

What is Offcanvas?

Offcanvas is similar to modal (it's hidden by default and shows when activated), except it's often used as a navigation menu for the sidebar of the screen.

How to create a horizontal sliding menu for the sidebar in Bootstrap 5

The following sample code shows how to create a sidebar with a horizontal sliding menu:

Open Offcanvas Sidebar

Detailed explanation:

This class `.offcanvas` creates a sidebar with a horizontal sliding menu.

The class `.offcanvas-start` defines the position of the horizontal sliding menu, giving it a width of 400px.

Class `.offcanvas-title` ensures proper alignment and line height.

Next, add the content inside the class `.offcanvas-body`.

To open the sidebar sliding menu, you must use an `▣` element that points to the container ID `.offcanvas` (`#demo` in the example).

To open a sidebar offcanvas with the element , you can point to #demo the same attribute href instead of data-bs-target.

You can also control when you want to hide or show the offcanvas menu on different screen widths, using the class `.offcanvas-sm | md | lg | xl | xxl`:

For example:

The menu slides horizontally to fit the screen size.

This example hides the horizontal sliding menu on screens wider than 991px. The offcanvas button is also hidden (`d-lg-none`).

Adjust the browser window size to see the result.

Ví dụ này ẩn menu trượt ngang trên màn hình có độ rộng lớn hơn 991px. Nút bấm mở offcanvas này cũng bị ẩn(`d-lg-none`).

Chỉnh lại kích thước của sổ trình duyệt để thấy kết quả.

Dark background horizontal sliding menu

Use a class `.text-bg-dark` to create a horizontal sliding menu with a dark background.

Tip: The sample code has added a class `.btn-close-white` to `.btn-close` to create a white close button to make it stand out against a dark background:

For example:
