

LG unveiled the G7 phone at Mobile World Congress, with rabbit ears similar to iPhone X

Is this true that LG G7 is not?

There have been rumors that LG will not call the next product in its G-Series phone, G7, but abandon the old plan to start over. But today, Israeli newspaper Ynet posted a video that clearly shows the G7 phone with the nickname Neo. It is not clear whether this LG phone is about to be released or if it is just an incomplete product.

According to Ynet, the phone also has rabbit ears like iPhone X, 6-inch OLED screen with the ratio of 19.55: 9, 8-megapixel front camera, 2 16-megapixel cameras and fingerprint sensor behind. Qualcomm Snapdragon 845 chip device, 4GB RAM, 64GB memory and 3000mAh battery.

VentureBeat reported that this may be a dropped phone. The newspaper's editor Evan Blass said that this G7 is paired with Q7 and V35 and its new watch.

This is a picture of G7 taken from the above video. The machine has a beautiful black glass material, with blue light.

Phone is said to be LG G7
