Zoom Features

Is Zoom VoIP?

Zoom has a simple interface that any user can understand. Whether you need to meet colleagues or connect with loved ones, Zoom lets you hear and see them in your high quality VoIP service. The Zoom desktop app opens with a user dashboard that gives you access to five tabs: Home, Chat, Phone, Meetings and Contacts .

By default, the user dashboard displays the Home tab . This is because it contains the necessary features for online meeting, which are: New Meeting, Join, Schedule and Share Screen . Both the New Meeting and Schedule buttons allow you to organize meetings. All scheduled meetings are listed in the Meetings tab . Once you've joined the meeting, a new window will appear.

Meeting controls are displayed at the bottom of the window, while video feeds from other callers are displayed at the top. The center of the window is reserved for the user that Zoom detects as talking or making the most sound. This helps everyone in the group focus on this person.

Zoom can call?

Loud background noise can be reduced by clicking the Mute button on the meeting control bar. These features are different from those in the Phone tab . Instead of VoIP, Zoom Phone allows you to call other users using Zoom's caller ID. It also allows you to leave voice messages and view the call history of your Zoom account. You can save the caller ID in the Contacts tab .

By default, it is arranged alphabetically. To access the most important contacts, tag them as Starred or Auto Answer. Note that calls made by an Auto Answer contact will be answered by Zoom immediately. You can use Zoom as your all-in-one productivity and office tool. In addition to VoIP capabilities, it allows you to share your screen.

You can also send files to your contacts. While you can use the chat feature to send files to your colleagues, you can also present these files through the Screen Share feature . For example, you have an important presentation. You can open the presentation on your screen and click the Screen Share button . This allows the call participants to view the file while listening to your presentation.

VoIP tool for professional and personal use

Although aimed at businesses and professionals, Zoom is also a good app to try out with friends and family, if you're the type of video caller. This is an application suitable for all users who need to coordinate or connect with a large number of users. Thanks to the collaboration and online meeting features, you can continue the progress of some team-based activities such as classroom projects, webinars, and business meetings.
