

MacBook and Sony Vaio 'go home together'

These are essentially two models of SmartBook shaped like Apple and Sony products.

These are essentially two models of SmartBook shaped like Apple and Sony products.

Although the two SmartBook Logo and Razor models have many similarities with the MacBook Air and Vaio, they do create their own distinctly beautiful designs. Both models have 11.6-inch display screen with chiclet keyboard that feels very comfortable to use.

The SmartBook Logo has the same power key as the Sony Vaio. (Photo: Engadget) .

While the SmartBook Razor integrates an Intel Atom N280 processor and has an aluminum case that feels just like a monolithic MacBook, the SmartBook Logo uses ULV low-voltage processor with the power key on the hinged side. Watch out for Sony Vaio products.

Razor reminds viewers of the MacBook Air. (Photo: Engadget) .

Both models are installed with Windows 7 operating system and sold for about 952 USD in the next few weeks.

In addition to Razor and Logo, the SmartBook also introduces a luxurious AG model with a top cover attached with decorative beads.

*Logo SmartBook Logo
Razor SmartBook image
SmartBook AG images*

Logo SmartBook Logo

Logo SmartBook Logo
Razor SmartBook image
SmartBook AG images

Razor SmartBook image

*Logo SmartBook Logo
Razor SmartBook image
SmartBook AG images*

SmartBook AG images

*Logo SmartBook Logo
Razor SmartBook image
SmartBook AG images*

You finished reading the article "MacBook and Sony Vaio 'go home together'" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.