

Many fortresses on the Kent coast are about to turn into luxury resorts

Some design images revealed that the Kent Coast fortress, Necker Island will become a luxury luxury resort for the elite and billionaires ... in the next 2 or 3 years.

Some design images revealed that the Kent Coast fortress, Necker Island will become a luxury luxury resort for the elite and billionaires . in the next 2 or 3 years.

These fortress buildings, called Red Sands , were built in 1943 during World War II to help protect the British kingdom from the Nazi navy.

The building is a complex of gun fortresses, built along the coast of Kent, each fortress has a polygon shape, there are 4 base pillars to help it stand on the sea. In the past, the purpose of this project was to shoot aircraft of Nazi Germany as well as some invading naval ships.

As expected, this fortress area will be quickly built, upgraded to a luxurious sea resort with luxury resort apartments, excellent spa care, lively entertainment bars, a zone Artificial garden and helicopter landing area on the roof of the building.

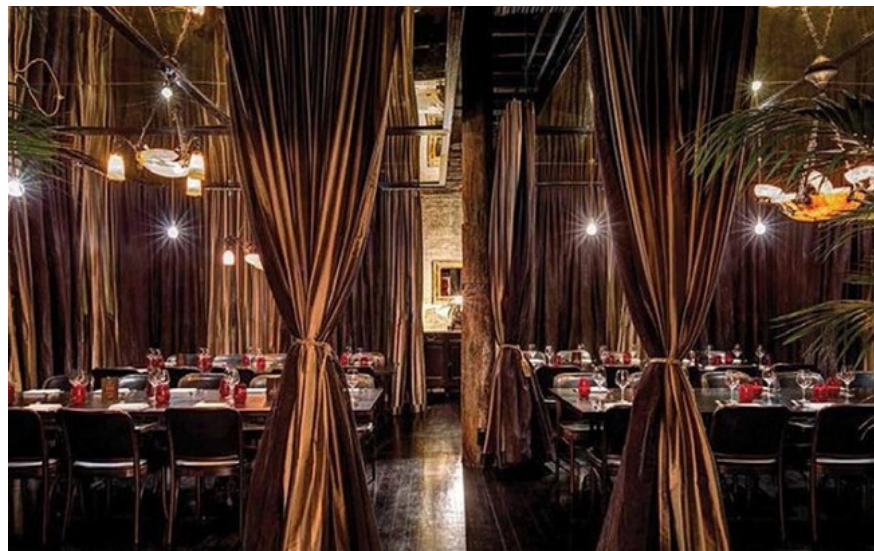

Next Big Thing Creative Travel Architecture will directly implement the project and forecast the project will be completed in two or three years.

A few photos of the project design were revealed:

In general, through the photos, it is predicted that this project will become a high-class complex resort mostly for the elite and billionaires, moreover, a resort night will be available. cost thousands of pounds.

The resort area will be decorated more luxuriously, splendidly, more classically, combining two harmonious light colors - dark as the leading and modern bedroom system with high-class amenities.

In particular, the dining area will be designed in the style of classical architecture extremely romantic. Those are the ceiling-hanging light bulbs glistening in white and yellow colors, the big screen walls are tied up in aesthetic style and take the golden brown color as the main theme. The dining tables are made of luxurious wood, close to each other, there is also a sparkling candle on each table.

The bar area must say is really great, diverse combination of many factors: ceiling lights, candles, rows of chairs close to the counter, opposite is a sofa area with many shaped hug pillows Decorative patterns, different color motifs. The sofa sets will have extremely unique designs, palm type, flexibility. The wall of the bar is a series of freezers including beers, cocktails and some delicious drinks.

In particular, the bathroom area will be invested with high-quality design with ceiling lights, artistic paintings of entrance walls, marble porcelain sinks and quite architectural and classical doors. , strange and almost unique design of each door is not the same.

The area of the banquet hall is filled with artworks that are famous characters, still-life paintings, mountain landscape pictures, contemporary art works, local history of Kent Island .

And more specifically, the architects will proceed to build a helipad landing right on the roof of this building.

Deactivated in 1950, this gun fortress is not owned by a particular individual, but the investor wants to reconstruct this place, it must be agreed by the local government agency. , National Maritime Organization and Port of London Authority.

David Cooper, who is the head of the Red Sands project, estimates a high renovation cost of about 40 000 000 pounds or more.

The work has been designed by the company on the manuscript and they are speeding up, hoping the fortress resort will present tourists in the next 2 or 3 years.

Huynh Dung (According to Dailymail)

You finished reading the article "Many fortresses on the Kent coast are about to turn into luxury resorts" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.