

Microsoft posted an explanation of the design of Windows 11 for fear that users would miss it

Recently, the Microsoft Design team posted a fairly long article on Medium to 'tell it all at once' about the design of Windows 11. Microsoft emphasizes that the designs of Windows 1 focus on people, caring about how the machine is. computing can empower users and what users love.

To do this, Microsoft relies on the results of more than 85 studies and tens of thousands of rounds of testing. At the same time, Microsoft also interacts with both longtime Windows users and new users who want Windows to be easier and more accessible.

Calm Technology

After researching, Microsoft came up with the main theme for the design of Windows 11: Calm Technology to make our lives better. Calm Technology's aim is to create familiar sensations to experience while softening the previously intimidating, tough interfaces.
