

Microsoft uploaded the video 'complaining' Siri

Today, Microsoft has posted a video about a group undergoing psychological treatment expressing frustration with Siri, the virtual assistant, as Siri is unnatural and doesn't understand anything about them.

Today, Microsoft has posted a video about a group undergoing psychological treatment expressing frustration with Siri, the virtual assistant, as Siri is unnatural and doesn't understand anything about them.

The video is over 2 minutes long talking about the conversation, in which some users complained that Siri did not understand their words and never offered any suggestions in a voluntary way. To better understand, please take a look at the video below:

As you have seen in the video, the users are very upset about how Siri answered them and at the end of the video there was a suggestion that Nokia Lumia 635 with Cortana would be a better solution.

What do you think about this video?

You finished reading the article "Microsoft uploaded the video 'complaining' Siri" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.