

Minecraft: Top 4 wooden house designs worth trying in 2022

Wood is one of the most popular building materials in Minecraft and is used in many different unique structures.

House made of wood and cobblestone

Wood and cobblestone is a classic combination in construction that has become so familiar to any Minecraft gamer. Wood here can be oak, birch, spruce.

The skillful combination of different wooden boards will definitely help players create great works but still keep the simplicity and sophistication.

Cave house in the mountain

If you are tired of building a house from the ground up, why not try to drill a hole in the mountain to make a shelter for yourself. Because the mountain has a texture of soil and rock, the use of wood material will help gamers create a highlight and uniqueness for their works.

In fact, the only part of this house that needs to be made of wood is the exterior. So, the construction process will certainly be much simpler.

Mansion

The mansion is a construction that requires a lot of building materials but the use of wood will make everything a lot easier. Wood can be easily collected in large quantities, so you can easily build houses of any size and scale to your liking.

Houseboats

This building is unique in that it is built on the water. And of course, a house based on the design of a boat will need wood as the main material to bring out all the different aspects of the building and bring out the overall aesthetic.

You finished reading the article "Minecraft: Top 4 wooden house designs worth trying in 2022" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.