

Minecraft: Top 5 things to avoid in Minecraft Hardcore

Hardcore is one of Minecraft's favorite game modes, but because the difficulty is so 'hard', players need to note a few things not to do.

For gamers who are tired of the usual survival mode and want to challenge themselves in a more interesting and 'potent' place, Hardcore in Minecraft is extremely suitable. This is the most difficult mode in the game and the participant only has 1 life. If you lose your life, anyone can't play again in this world. Therefore, being careful when doing anything in hardcore is necessary, especially noting some things not to do.

Do not dig down directly

This is a rule that must be followed because when digging down, the risk of the player falling into a giant cave or worse, a lava pool is extremely large, at that time can only lose their life.

Instead, choose to dig smarter than diagonally and always have a bucket of water on hand.

Don't enter the Nether unprepared

Most players in Hardcore mode are very 'fragile', so a careful and thorough preparation before entering the Nether - a kingdom famous for death is something to be very mindful of.

Come here with caution and come with armor, potions,.

Do not enter the narrow and deep valleys

This is the location of large holes, which can be several blocks deep. This is especially dangerous for players as vines can fall on them from above without realizing it. Therefore, narrow and deep valleys are always one of the most dangerous places when in hardcore mode.

Avoid the night in the game

As is known, the night in Minecraft is very dangerous because hostile mobs can appear in the dark. Therefore, it is best to skip the night by sleeping on a strong mode. Since the game is on the highest difficulty, more hostile mobs can appear and can be dangerous to the player.

Don't fight too confident

Confidence will bring many advantages to the player, but maintaining it excessively in hardcore mode is extremely dangerous. While fighting various mobs, the player can get overexcited and push themselves to the 'abyss'.

Don't forget, you only have one life in Minecraft Hardcore, so never be too confident and then lose your life in regret.
