

Mistakes caused the wound due to ants burning three long burning chambers

The body of ants has three powerful venom chambers, even stronger than the cobra's poison. Therefore, when there are three burning chambers, if the wound is not treated properly, it will cause dermatitis and long time.

The body of ants has three powerful venom chambers, even stronger than the cobra's poison. Therefore, when there are three burning chambers, if the wound is not treated properly, it will cause dermatitis and long time.

When detecting ants in the house, we often follow the habit of using hands to beat, kill them like mosquitoes, common ants. This causes ants in the body to be exposed directly to the skin, causing burns and dermatitis.

In case you are burned or in direct contact with the antidote of the tricuspid ants, you need to know to avoid proper handling, avoid the following mistakes to heal.

Wash the spot with water

After being burned three ants, many people only wash the wound with ordinary water. This is completely wrong because ordinary water cannot temporarily disinfect wounds and prevent toxins from spreading to other skin areas.

The best treatment is to clean the stain with soap and then use a mild antiseptic. When the wound appears erythema, stain small blisters, use saline solution to wash gently 3-4 times a day to neutralize the ant poison.

The burn of ant three compartments.

Arbitrarily apply medicine

Many people confuse stings, insect contact dermatitis with some skin diseases, especially shingles, so they often buy medicine to apply. On the other hand, because of not knowing the progress of the wound, applying the medication incorrectly. In some cases, thinking about applying as much medicine as possible leads to a wound with deeper skin ulcers and lesions, which leads to a longer treatment period.

After washing the wound, apply medications such as lakes to soothe the skin. When the blisters are dry, apply antibiotic cream or corticosteroids.

If the wound is swollen, swollen, then after washing with violet, apply topical corticosteroids, antihistamines, and antibiotics.

If the medication is not affected by the wounds and the signs of infection spread, you need to see a dermatologist for prompt treatment.

Scratching makes the wound spread, leading to skin infection

The burn of the three-chamber ants makes you feel uncomfortable itching, so many people often scratch the wound. This can cause skin wounds, skin ulcers, deeper lesions. On the other hand, unwashed hands that contain a lot of bacteria when exposed to wounds can lead to very dangerous skin infections.

You finished reading the article "Mistakes caused the wound due to ants burning three long burning chambers" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.