Predicting his own death, what seemed unreasonable happened to many people, including some famous cases that predicted death for themselves while living as American President Abraham Lincoln, Roman emperor Caligula, .

Abraham Lincoln

President Lincoln had a dream about his death just days before he was assassinated in April 1865. In his dream he went to the East Room in the White House and saw a corpse guarded by soldiers, everyone around him was very sad. The president asked a soldier who was in the coffin. He answered that the president was dead. He approached the coffin and realized that the person inside was himself.

President Lincoln's dream of death became a reality a week later. The president was assassinated and his coffin was placed at the East Room, and guarded by guards.

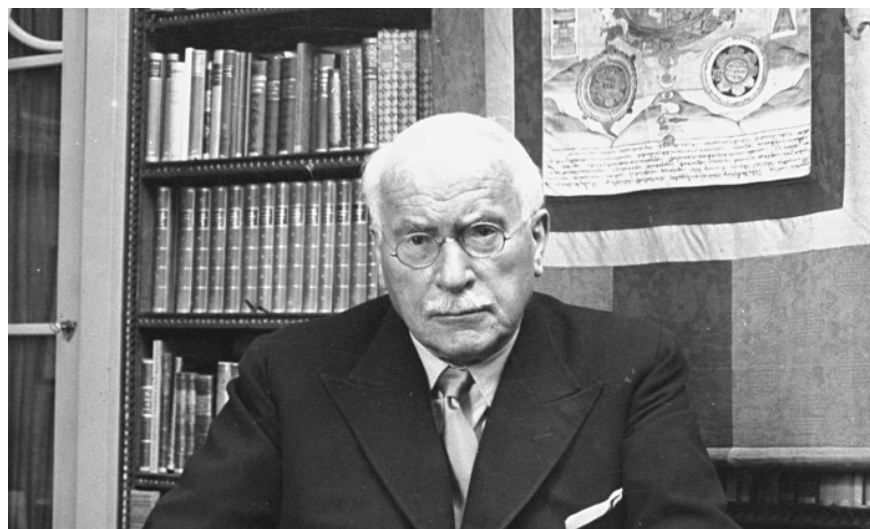

Caligula

Caligula was the third emperor of the Roman Empire from 37 to 41. The emperor was famous for being brutal in killing innocent people. In addition, the emperor also had a perverse way of life and was thought to have an incestuous relationship with his sisters.

Emperor Caligula had a dream that was supposed to be a bad omen of his destiny. He dreamed of himself appearing on Jupiter and being brought back to Earth by the gods of the Greek gods. That emperor's prophetic dream came true. After 3 years and 11 months of reigning the country Caligula was assassinated by Casius Chaerea - who was abused by Caligula in front of the court for his weakness.

Carl Jung

Carl Jung is a famous Swiss psychoanalyst. Besides, Carl Jung is also known by many people in the world as a prophet with dreams to predict the startling future .

In 1914, Carl Jung dreamed that the whole ocean turned red with blood, there were many bodies floating in golden waves. Then he saw the whole country frozen by a cold wave. Everyone died.

According to Carl Jung, this is a sign of war . After that, he had many other dreams about floods that stretched from the Alps to the north sea. According to him, it was terrible battlefields in the war that soldiers would have to go through.

Shortly thereafter, his prophetic dream came true. In August 1914, World War 1 broke out.

Carl Jung's last dream is said to be an omen of his main. Before he died, he dreamed that he could communicate with his followers and see a rock with the content engraved on it .
