

New MacBook Pro launches Steve Jobs birthday right

Apple Group on February 24 launched the new MacBook Pro, on the anniversary of Apple CEO Steve Jobs's birthday.

Apple Group on February 24 has released a new version of their MacBook Pro, on the birthday of Apple co-founder and CEO, Steve Jobs.

That day, "Apple father" officially turned 56.

Since before the launch, the new MacBook Pro has been actively shipped to Apple retailers and iStore stores.

At Jobs's birthday celebration, the customer was " pounding " the new device as a blessing for the talented CEO.

Prior to this special time, Apple warned its partners not to " celebrate their birthday early " by opening a preview box, or revealing relevant information, until Apple allowed it.

If any partner violates, "Apple" threatens to withdraw their business license.

In addition, this technology company also plans to honor Steve Jobs while he is resting sick.

Jobs had to fight evil pancreatic cancer, and he had surgery in the US and Switzerland. In addition, the head of Apple used to have a liver transplant to maintain life.

Although there are so many health problems, but Steve Jobs is always trying his best to work, and he is known as a great "revolutionary" in the field of technology, when his products create a very high breakthrough, and become a trend for the whole world to follow.

The profound influence of Jobs in the areas of digital music, smartphones, mobile software, tablets and high-end laptops can be mentioned.

You finished reading the article "New MacBook Pro launches Steve Jobs birthday right" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.